NEWS FROM PETROGRAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 18.—Petrograd was quiet up to Wednesday evening, according to advices from what are regarded here as reliable sources. The railway employees were refusing to transport troops for either faction and the food situation in the capital was becoming serious.

There is little definite news from the provinces, but apparently reliable reports said that Gen. Kaledines was assembling a considerable force of Cossacks.

There has been hard fighting at Moscow, where the only resistance to the Leninites came from the military cadets and the university students. It is feared that the Kremlin has been damaged by the bombardment and that the street fighting was more severe than in Petrograd.

It is stated that efforts are still being made, but with what prospects of success is unknown to form an exclusively Socialist government. M. Tchernoff, who is believed to be with Premier Kerensky, has been suggested among presidential possibilities.

The correspondent talked with an American business man, who left Petrograd Wednesday. He reports that no foreigners in the city had been molested and that Nikolai Lenine said to a delegation of foreign diplomats, who called on him at the Smolny Institute:

"Instructions have been given to treat foreigners with all consideration. They are guests of the republic."

The American traveler characterized Lenine as a man desiring peace, but said that Leon Trotzky was using violent language and threatening all his opponents with death. Comparatively little looting was reported.

FATHER SEARCHING FOR MISSING SON.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 18.—William Brannan, 77, living at 3625 South Hope street, Los Angeles, is making an effort to obtain information concerning the whereabouts of his son Thomas Brannan, who was last heard from in Seattle in 1909.

"I talked with William Brannan in Los Angeles" said Ira G. Benton of Seattle, who has just returned from California. Brannan told me he believed his son thought him dead and for that reason had not written. He said his daughter received a post card from Thomas from Seattle in 1909. At that time the family home was at Tulare, Cal. In 1909 the father said Thomas was employed in a wholesale house in Seattle.

VILLISTAS IN SIGHT.

Strong Force of the Rebel Troops Sighted by the Carranzistas.

"Mexico Owes Nobody Anything," Murguia Proclaims to the World.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PRESIDIO (Tex.) Nov. 18.—Gen. Eduardo Hernandez, acting commander of the Federal Mexican troops in the northwestern military zone, is expected to march against Villa forces in the Ojinaga section at once with a column of cavalry from the famous "Death Head Brigade," which even the Villa officers in Ojinaga today admitted were good fighters.

For military reasons, the movements of Gen. Hernandez are not being revealed, but it became known tonight that the Federal column composed of all branches of the service, had left Chihuahua city.

JUAREZ (Mex.) Nov. 18.—Camp fires, thought to be those of Villa bands, could be seen tonight west, south and east from here. During the day scouts reported a strong force of Villa men, under command of Martin Lopez, at Guadalupe, thirty miles to the east. Another considerable force was located at Rancheria, twelve miles to the west, and close to the New Mexico line. At the cuartel-general, it was said, every precaution has been taken to guard against a surprise attack and the commander professed confidence in the ability of his men to hold the town against any force that might be sent against it.

Notwithstanding the general belief that an attack was impending, municipal elections were held today and passed off without untoward incident. The vote was heavy. At 8 o'clock tonight, Francisco D. Gonselez and Rafael Martinez, leading candidates for Mayor, both claimed election. The election is the first to be held under the constitutional government.

CARRANZA NEUTRAL.

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 18.—"North America does not need our passive alliance. North America needs only our quota of soldiers, as its men are going to war, not singing the 'Marseillaise,' but sorrowfully singing 'Home Sweet Home.'"

The foregoing is the opening sentence of a manifesto signed by Gen. Francisco Murguia, commander of the Carranza army in Northern Mexico, hundreds of copies of which were distributed in Juarez today.

"It would be the limit of childishness," the manifesto continues, "to believe that our joining the Entente would result in our indebtedness to those nations being forgiven.

"I stand for neutrality. I do not believe that we Mexicans are under obligations to support the cause of either of the fighting parties.

"Let us abandon all idea of giving the Entente our moral support. America does not need our moral support nor our passive influence. America does not need, as a matter of help, our oil, our ores nor our henequin. These they can obtain by trade and should we dare refuse them, they would take them by the right granted to a country in war. What North America needs is our men.

"The United States have only been able to send 10 per cent. of the forces they promised to send to Europe. To this end they have enlisted the negroes, the aliens and—most sorrowful—the Mexicans. They know they will have to sacrifice a lot of lives and it is clear that they wish to sacrifice everybody but their own countrymen.

"The national feeling of Americans is opposed to the war. The anti-war progaganda in America has reached the hearts of the people.

"If we shake off our apathy, forget our hatreds, consolidate our government, exert all our force, Mexico's neutrality will be respected.

"We do not expect anything from Germany, nor do we ask any favors of that nation, but far less could be expected from the United States. Let this be our attitude toward the rest of the world. We need our 100,000 soldiers for our own use."

EMPHASIS BY WILSON ON UNITY OF CONTROL.

It Must be Accomplished, Says the President, if Our Resources Are to Be Used to Best Advantage.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Col. Edward M. House, head of the American mission, has received a cablegram from President Wilson stating emphatically that the United States government considers that unity of plan and control between the Allies and the United States is essential in order to achieve a just and permanent peace.

President Wilson emphasizes the fact that this unity must be accomplished if the great resources of the United States are to be used to the best advantage, and he requests Col. House to confer with the heads of the Allied governments, with a view to achieving the closest co-operation.

President Wilson has asked Col. House to attend the first meeting of the Supreme War Council, with Gen. Tasker H. Bliss as military adviser.

It is hoped that the meeting will take place in Paris before the end of the month.

HOUSE SOUNDS KNELL OF BRITISH PREMIER.

BY C. W. GILBERT.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 18.—President Wilson's message to Col. House as it is summarized in the Associated Press dispatch from London, amounts almost to an expression of dissatisfaction with the Lloyd George plan for joint war control. The news reads like an official announcement from Col. House. In that case the language in which it is expressed becomes significant. If the President were entirely satisfied with the organization the British Premier effected after the Italian catastrophe the natural thing for him to do would be to express his pleasure and instruct Col. House and Gen. Bliss to take part in the first meeting of the conference. But he seems studiously to avoid doing this. On the contrary, he instructs Col. House to "confer with the heads of the Allied governments with a view to achieving the closest possible co-operation."

THE HOPE.

That instruction, together with the merely tentative acceptance of the Lloyd George war council, seem to indicate that he hopes that out of the Paris conference will come a much more effective scheme for unifying Allied operations than the Lloyd George organization. This view accords with all the information I have been able to gather regarding the administration's attitude toward that organization, which, it will be remembered, was formed without consultation with Mr. Wilson.

Before Mr. House's arrival in London it was observed in circles close to the President that the colonel's mission was to get control of the war into single hands. That is, we had no candidate for the job of running the war and we had no form of organization in mind as the one that would centralize control. These matters we left to those who were more familiar with war conditions than we were. All we were going to insist upon was that unified control should be established.

NORTHCLIFFE.

How strongly the administration felt about this need seems to be shown by Lord Northcliffe's letter to Lloyd George in in which the British commissioner says that if proper control is not established this country will sooner or later take a large part of the management of the war into its own hands.

On top of this Northcliffe statement of the administration's feeling comes President Wilson's message to Col. House, sent after Lloyd George has formed an organization that nominally, at least, will establish unity of control, insisting that unity must be accomplished if Folly Blamed for Disasters.

Pro-German Propagandists at Work in the Very Heart of the Nation.

Censors Manage to Censor Everything but the Lies of the Enemy.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Travelers returning to France from Italy place much of the blame for present conditions in that country upon the operations of an inefficient censorship which prevented the people of Italy from becoming aware of the dangers that beset them.

"Italy today is like some big pearly giant that is just awakening from a dope dream," a returning Englishman said.

While blind censorship for months has shut down on all means for the Italian people to become acquainted with their army, pro-German propagandists were ready to take advantage of such an opportunity and flood the country with rumors and peace talk. In the long absence of any public refutation of these rumors people began to believe them and disaffection grew.

Germans managed their propaganda campaign as part of their offensive. Copies of counterfeited Italian newspapers were circulated among Italian troops telling them that during their absence from home French and British troops had been brought to Italy and had fired upon and killed hundreds of Italian women and children.

The whole Italian army believed the rumor that a peace conference was meeting in Switzerland and that peace had been arranged for December 1. The blind, inefficient censorship practically aided and abetted the spread of this pro-German propaganda by withholding legitimate news from the public. When the time was ripe the Germans struck.

Now the Italians are waking from the censorship lethargy and the effects of the pro-German anaesthetic. Their pride has been injured and the fact that Italian soil has been invaded and Venice threatened by Austrians has done much to solidify the north, middle, and southern parts of the country which have been played one against the other by ingenious propaganda.

Observers of international conditions see in recent events that Britain and France have profited by Italy's lesson. The new Premier, Clemenceau, has announced complete elimination of the political censorship which has stifled France and a more sane and scientific operation of military censorship.

Lord Northcliffe's first public statement upon his return to England charged that abuses and misuses were again creeping into British censorship and were exerting themselves against the best interests of country at a time when greatest public effort was necessary.

Americans in France are wondering whether recent events will have some effect upon the operation of American censorship on this side of water, and many are looking forward to the rise of an American Northcliffe who will awaken the American public as the British public was awakened in 1915.

ITALY IS DONE FOR, DECLARES RUSSELL.

FALL OF PARIS IS PREDICTED BY SOCIALIST.

Member of American Mission to Russia Tells Chicago Audience that England will Evacuate France and United States will be Left Alone in Conflict.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 18.—Predicting the fall of Paris and the evacuation of France by England as a possible result of the Italian reverses, Charles Edward Russell, former Socialist and member of the American mission to Russia, addressing workmen, pacifists and Socialists in the Chicago Theater, declared:

"The Italian situation pivoted on Russia and when Russia stopped fighting twenty-two German divisions were released.

"In my opinion Italy is done for. She has lost 220,000 of her best troops.

"This may well mean the invasion of France from the south, the loss of Paris, the English troops will be forced to evacuate France, and that the United States will be left to face the enemy alone."

Police were present but found nothing to do. In his appeal for intensive patriotism, Mr. Russell was interrupted frequently by applause.

"If any one tells you this is a rich man's war," said Mr. Russell, "don't pay a bit of attention to him. He's a pro-German. This is a people's war.

"This is a workers' war and the worker is in it not because this is his country or because it protects him, but because this war is his great chance to get what we've all been looking for. It's not for the flag, but for what the flag stands for to the worker.

"This isn't a war between nations or races or peoples or creeds. It's a war between two ideas. One of them is the idea that people can be governed by an inherited right to rule.

"And the other is that the government shall be of the people, by the people and for the people. This war has been going on always. Peace has never been anything more than an armed truce since man first emerged from the jungle and dreamed that some day he might be free."

This is expected to result in participation in the movement of thousands of small dealers.

The stamps and certificates will be distributed through two principal channels, the postoffice system and the banks.

The Great War.

BITTEREST STRUGGLE.

All Furies Loosed by the Kaiser.

Tremendous Assaults Renew Gravity of the Situation on the Piave.

Hand-to-hand Fighting at Many Points, with Navy Co-operating.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 18.—On the northern line and along the Piave River, above Zenson, the fighting has assumed extreme severity. The enemy has thrown fresh divisions into the battle in a supreme effort to break through. The Italians are resisting with desperate tenacity, using hand grenades to meet the infantry rushes following artillery and machine-gun fire. It is one of the bitterest struggles of the war and the losses are heavy.

ACROSS THE PIAVE.

On the Piave River, the enemy got across at two points, Follina and Fagare, a few miles above Zenson, but those at Follina were annihilated by artillery, and hand-to-hand fighting, while those at Fagare were driven back to the western bank with heavy losses and many captured.

The Italian lines are holding in the main, but the fury of the enemy assaults renew the gravity of the situation.

The Italian navy is doing splendid service, seconding the army in the bombardment of enemy positions toward the mouth of the Piave River.

ENEMY REPULSED.

Near Revedoli, an Italian marine battalion repulsed on Saturday, a rush made by an Austrian storming party, and Italian torpedo boats, off Porto di Cortellozzo drove off an attack of an Austrian torpedo fleet. This latter action was accompanied by operations of a fleet of Italian hydroplanes and seconded by Italian coast batteries.

On the Middle Piave River, where the Austrians succeeded in gaining a foothold on the west bank, near Zenson, they are held to the water's edge, and their only communication with the east bank is at night when a flat boat is dragged from side to side, bringing a small stock of supplies.

THE TURNING POINT.

Further north, where the front turns westward from the Piave River, across the Asiago Plateau, Gen. Ritter von Krobatin, formerly Austrian Minister of War, is driving his Austrian forces, together with one Hungarian division, in an attack which may be the turning point of the whole operation. It is here that the Piave front and the Trentino front meet, and Gen. Von Krobatin is throwing all of his pressure on this point so as to force a wedge between the two Italian armies. What his success would mean is fully realized, for, should this wedge come through, it would not only separate the two Italian armies, but would require the consideration of retreat from the Piave River, as it would not be possible to maintain a position on the Piave with the left flank thus menaced.

Gen. Armando Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian army, was able last night to announce the solidity of both main fronts and to give merited tribute to his men. The fighting, while desperate, has not yet developed the enemy's full power, and it is still to be shown where he will strike his greatest blow. But his first shock has been met and checked, and the Italian arms have gained new luster.

BOY CONFESSES STARTING FIRES.

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) Nov. 18.—The police and firemen of this city spent a large part of today going over the story told by Ralph Lefevre, a 15-year-old boy who was arrested late last night, following one of a series of incendiary fires which have kept the guardians of the city busy for several days. Young Lefevre, who is the son of Capt. J. Lefevre of Denver, Colo., now at Camp Kearny, came here about two weeks ago to reside with his parents. Early today he admitted having set seven fires, six in residences and one at the rear of the Florence Hotel near a large distillate tank. None of the fires which the boy admitted setting resulted seriously.

After hearing the boy's story, the police let him go in the care of his father. The lad said he set the fires to see the excitement which he knew would follow.

GEN. PERSHING VISITS GRAVES OF THE DEAD.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 17.—Night patrolling continues active and contact with the enemy's patrols has been established several times, shots being exchanged. The Germans have sent over more gas shells, but they caused no damage.

Gen. Pershing expressed himself as satisfied with his troops' efficiency, discipline and adaptability to the new conditions. During his trip the general visited the graves of the men who were killed in a trench raid recently.

Gen. Pershing showed especial interest in the simple markers upon the graves, recording the name, company, and regiment of each of the Americans buried there, and in a wreath of native flowers hung within the inclosure, upon which had been placed, in French, the following inscription:

"Here lie the first soldiers of the great republic of the United States who died on the soil of France for justice and liberty, November 3, 1917."

TRAINING CAMP NEWS.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Nov. 17.—All volunteers in the camion sections of the American field service, who have not enlisted in the transport service of the American Army are returning to Paris preparatory to sailing for America, or to join other branches of the army and navy service here.

The majority of the camion personnel enlisted in the army and the return of the volunteers, many of whom are not eligible for the American Army for various reasons, marks the complete militarization of all the ambulance transport section in field service which has been called with the French army since soon after the outbreak of the war.

Ambulance sections Nos. 3 and 10, which for the last year have served in the Balkans, and since have been recalled to France, were cited on their departure by Gen. Regnault, commanding the French army of the Orient. Each citation says in part:

"Thanks to the qualities of endurance, bravery and coolness displayed by the personnel of this section in the most perilous circumstances, numerous French soldiers, often grievously wounded, have been able to receive expeditiously the necessary care which has saved their lives."

ITALY'S ARMIES HOLD AUSTRIANS IN CHECK.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ITALIAN ARMY IN NORTHERN ITALY, Friday, Nov. 16, 6 p.m.—After five days of heavy shell fire, covering their advance with storming parties at chosen points, the Austro-Germans have not been able to pass the Piave River in force but are held there by the desperate resistance force developed by the reorganized Italian army. This has shown officers and soldiers alike the power of resistance they possess, and has given them tangible evidence that this menacing rush from beyond the mountains can at least be checked if not stopped entirely.

The chief scenes of action are on the lower Piave, where Austrians have their left under the fire of Italians and Allied naval guns at the mouth of Piave, their right under bombardment by Italian batteries and their front faced with fifteen miles of inundated country. Further up on the middle Piave the Austrians who succeeded in getting a foothold on the west bank near Zenson are crowded down to the water's edge.

The invaders here have scant food and munitions and have been unable thus far to bring over reinforcements from the east bank. All their attempts to float pontoon bridges have failed under the enfilading fire of the Italian guns on both their flanks.

"Entente Cordiale."

HEARST EDITORIALS QUOTED IN GERMANY.

His Propaganda the Main Reliance of Anti-Americans Abroad.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[The following is the concluding chapter of Mr. Draper's article on the "Kaiser and Hearstism."]

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—When Gen. Pershing's military commission made its report to the United States it was, according to Hearst, only partially reproduced by the New York World, and Hearst's New York American made a special point of publishing what alleges to have been complete disclosures made as to the strength of Germany, etc. De Zarraga was ahead here in his account of the Pershing report which reached the A. B. C. papers of August 15. The Vienna K. and W. Korrespondens Bureau sent it on by wireless to Austria, where it was quoted by the Vienna Fremdenblatt on the morning of the 25th. Naturally, it was all over Germany the next day. For instance, it was in the first edition of the Hamberger Fremdenblatt on the 26th. A copy of the American itself followed later and was reproduced in full, cartoon and all, in the Continental Times of September 3. Extracts are given from it in various other German papers, such as the Kolnische Volkszeitung of September 17, Frankfurter Zeitung, Kreig Zeitung and Hamburger Fremdenblatt of September 21.

Echoes of it still continue to be heard in neutral countries. The Berliner Tageblatt of October 23 refers to it, and though the World is mentioned, the substance is obviously taken from the American. The Continental Times of September 3 had its entire front page, with the exception of its two outside columns, taken up with a huge reproduction of McKay's cartoon showing Uncle Sam reading a bulletin, "No victory in sight," etc. The heading to an accompanying article was, "Startling Report Made to Washington by American Pershing Military Commission Just Returned from a Stay at the French Front." The subcaption reads, "So far America has been misinformed on conditions existing—German lines impregnable unless America brings tremendous assistance—only if United States makes some titanic effort can the results of the war be favorable to the Allies."

MORE QUOTATIONS.

The article begins:

"The New York American publishes the following highly startling article upon its editorial page. It stands forth as the most astounding revelation of the intense ignorance which has existed in the United States concerning conditions at the seat of war in Europe, and at the same time as a lasting tribute to the honesty of the American officers responsible for the drawing of the report. It clearly demonstrates that the members of the Pershing military commission — an expert, conscientious body of men—found no other choice after what they saw on the French front than that of bluntly informing the government and people of the United States that the war on which President Wilson has embarked his country is a most rash proceeding, and that to win, America really needs to set forth unparalleled and titanic military effort. Reading between the lines, it is quite evident that the report was intended by the authors to be a solemn warning against further participation in the war, of which they, as experts, fully realize the peril to the Union. Military men of experience, and especially American officers, are fully aware of the impossibility of the United States Army making the stupendous military effort called for in order to rescue the Allies from the hopeless strategical and material position to which they have brought themselves by their reckless prolongation of the war in the hope that they ultimately would be saved by a miracle of one kind or another. Thus the American aid from which the Allies expect wonders is doomed to failure."

HEARST AGAIN.

Then follows in full the Hearts editorial, covering nearly two pages, in which it is maintained that the American officers who visited the front were astounded at the strength of the German position, that they frankly told their government that the German line on the western front was so nearly impregnable that the Allied commanders freely admitted their inability to break it; that Germany is in the ascendancy and that she has command of the air.

Hearstism is not always directly used by these pro-German organs but its influence is apparent even when it is absent. Although no quotation is made, the "Continental Times," of October 19, bears eloquent testimony of the value assigned to the Hearst press by the German propagandist. The Chicago Tribune, from which the article quotes, and the New York Evening Post, to which it refers, are constantly quoted in the "Continental Times," but it made obvious that Hearst's papers represent the real press of America in German eyes. The "Times" article in question throws an interesting light on German feelings toward the United States press. It appears under the heading: "Provocation of United States against Germany frankly told of in leading American newspapers,' and a sub-heading, reading, "From the very first, neutrality was openly broken and the great republic acted in most important respects as a belligerent supporting the Allies." The article then begins with the dictum that "It's a great mistake to imagine that the representative press organs of the United States have their headquarters in New York. It is quite to the contrary. The newspapers of New York which are especially well known on this side of the water, namely, the Tribune, Times, Sun, World and Herald, are all under influences distinctly non-American. They are merely cosmopolitan sheets directed by men or inspired by influences which make them European organs and not really representative American newspapers in the true sense.

"By the grace of England the special correspondents of American newspapers are allowed to send to the United States carefully censored dispatches of a kind which suit the wishes and political aims of the Entente. How the American newspaper of today is muzzled is shown by the refusal of the British government to allow the dispatches of the Hearst news syndicate to be sent over the cables just because the correspondents of that powerful independent news organization were instructed to tell the truth concerning what is taking place in Europe impartially and fearlessly.

"It thus comes to pass that the owners and editors of the so-called leading newspapers of the United States are, day by day, publishing misleading news and fake dispatches, and misinforming their readers. But there are 'American newspapers' in the United States in the true sense of that expression—press organs which are vast, rich and powerful, and whose owners and directors are not mere agents for toadying European personages and are really American in tone and spirit.

"Of such may be mentioned the Chicago Tribune, which in America ranks to a height equivalent to that most respected and representative English newspaper, the Manchester Guardian. Then again there is the San Francisco Examiner, the Chicago Record, the Philadelphia Ledger and the Washington Post. Also there is a series of leading newspapers controlled by Mr. Hearst and published in the principal cities of the United States, all with the same title of 'The American.' These newspapers form a girdle of independent press organs from the East to the West of the United States. All are newspapers which have stood out free and independent—that really have represented American opinion and are not bastardized newspapers such as those of the capital which are saturated with European sentiment and bow the knee to everything foreign.

"Those real American newspapers strove until the very last to tell their countrymen the truth, for which all praise to them. They sought to avoid America being drawn into a war, the end of which none can foresee. They opposed a step, which, it is recognized, has been made in contradistinction of all true ideas of sound American policy.

"William Randolph Hearst, in his 'Americans,' has, ever since the declaration of war, striven to point out to his compatriots the superhuman nature of the task which threatens to engulf the Union as was shown by his publishing the Pershing commission report—a terrible warning to the United States—which the pro-English New York newspapers carefully withheld from their readers. He has also dared to reflect the opinions of millions of his countrymen by suggesting that the Papal note and the reply of the Central Powers thereto formed an ample foundation for peace negotiations.

"For his pains, taken in the interests of his fellow-citizens and in the interest of humanity, Mr. Hearst is now decried by the New York Tribune as a traitor to his country. But the Chicago Tribune has performed a feat of wondrous courage in view of the Draconian, autocratic form of censorship existing in the United States. It publishes a powerful editorial in which it is clearly pointed out that Germany and the German people are fully justified in considering America from the very first as hostile to them and that its assumption of neutrality was a mere blind. It admitted that America at no time was really neutral but all the while actively hostile to Germany."

It would now be in order for the Los Angeles Hearst paper to get out another issue of "The Housewife."

BAKER IS CONFIDENT ITALIANS WILL WIN.

But He Points Out that the Enemy's Big Blow is Yet to Come.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Hardening of the Italian defense and the precision with which British and French reinforcements are being delivered in the Italian war theater leads Secretary Baker, in his weekly war review tonight, to contemplate the future in that field with confidence. He points out, however, that the full strength of the Austro-German efforts has not yet been developed. The only reference to the sector of the western front where American troops occupy first line trenches is that the men have shown themselves worthy of the best traditions of the American army.

"The training of our National Army is now progressing rapidly," the statement says. "At all the camps the morale of our new citizen soldiers is reported as excellent.

"The men who have been called up to defend our country in the present emergency are taking hold of the work in a serious, high-minded spirit, which will produce the best results.

"The British and French officers who are to assist in instructing our new armies are arriving.

"In France, the training of our troops is likewise being carefully continued. In the sector where our forces are in the trenches, they have shown themselves worthy of the best traditions of our armies.

"After the successes gained by the Allies in the west during the preceding week, the relative calm of the last seven-day period was to be anticipated.

"It is significant, however, that the reaction of the enemy has been relatively slight both in the region north of the Aisne and in Flanders. In this season of the year the fogbound fields of Flanders and bad weather make it difficult to coordinate major operations with precision. Nevertheless, artillery preparations are continuing, presaging further offensive engagements.

"Hostile artillery fire is noted in the area along the rear, centering around Dixmude, and the shelling by the enemy increased during the latter part of the week, betraying a decided nervousness on the part of the Germans lest any unexpected offensive action develop.

"On the French front no engagements of importance are recorded.

"The news from Italy is more encouraging. Operations involving the skillful handling of large masses of troops and the reorganization of defensive positions have been carried out by the Italian armies with energy and courage.

"In all sectors of the Italian theater, much hard fighting continues. The enemy, along four different lines of attack, is endeavoring to outflank and if possible to crush the Italian armies and debouch into the heart of Northern Italy.

"While attempting to drive ahead across the Venetian plain along a broad front, the Austro-German forces have thrown large masses of troops against the Italian defensive positions girding the Trentino.

"In spite of the intense strain of the engagements, the Italian defense is hardening.

"Along the Piave and in the region of the Lake of Garda, and along the Brenta, the enemy, while scoring local advantages, is being successfully contained.

"On the lower Piave, the hostile attempt to cross the river was partially successful, resulting in the capture of Zenson.

"The Italians have now opened the dikes in this sector, which will render the enemy advance difficult.

"While it must be acknowledged that the full Austro-German strength in the Trentino has not yet been deployed, nevertheless the present temper of the Italian armies and Allied reinforcements which are arriving in the Italian theater should lead us to contemplate the future with confidence."

The Secretary then reviews at length the military situation in Palestine and Mesopotamia. He asserts that the investment of Jerusalem by the British is taking shape, that Jaffa, the principal seaport of Palestine, is under Allied gun fire and indicates that its fall is impending, to the great relief of the Allied supply lines. That the Turkish forces in Palestine have lost half their effectives also is noted.

Mr. Baker concludes with the statement that the situation in Russia continues disturbed.

DESIGNS FOR STATE BUILDING COMPETITIVE.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17.—Architects throughout the United States have been invited by the California State Building Commission to participate in the competition for the designing and building of the two new State buildings to be constructed here at an approximate cost of $3,000,000. Bonds have been voted and the site for the two structures has been donated to the State by the city of Sacramento.

Programmes outlining the rules of the competition will be distributed December 15, 1917. Each architect must make his own selections of materials to be used and recommend the landscape treatment for the site, which is opposite the Capitol.

An office building, the library and courts building are to be constructed.

The jury of awards will be composed of the Governor, Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, the State Librarian and three architects to be selected. Eight sets of plans will be selected from the whole number submitted and from these will be chosen the plans which finally will be adopted. An honorarium of $2500 will be paid to each of the seven unsuccessful candidates in the final competition.

PRELATES PUNISHED FOR POLITICAL WORK.

House Sounds Knell

the resources of this country are to be used to advantage and directing the colonel to confer with the heads of the Allied governments, "with a view to achieving the closest possible co-operation," indicating pretty plainly that the proposed plan leaves a good deal to be desired in the way of close co-operation.

The weakness of the Lloyd George plan is that the functions of the council created are simply advisory. What this government unquestionably had in mind was an organization, whether single headed or not, which would have executive powers.

Just what President Wilson hopes to accomplish by his instructions to Col. House is difficult to see. It was explained here officially a day or two ago that the whole matter of unified war control would have to be threshed out in the Paris conference, in spite of what Lloyd George had done in the way of organization. But the governments of England, France and Italy are already committed to the plan to which President Wilson appears to give only a limited approval by instructing his representatives to attend the first meeting of the council. This instruction seems to indicate that he does not expect to modify greatly the external form of the organization.

ALICE PAUL DESCRIBES HER LIFE IN A CELL.

Complains Bitterly Because She I Denied Fresh Air.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 18.—Alice Paul's own story of her experience in the psychopathic ward of the District Jail where she is serving a sentence of seven months' imprisonment for picketing the White House with a banner inscribed: "Mr. President, what will you do for WOMAN suffrage?" is contained in a note smuggled out of the jail today and delivered to Miss Doris Stevens, who is now acting chairman of the Woman's party. Miss Paul was carried last night from the psychopathic ward to the hospital on a stretcher. She has been fed forcibly three times each day since she began a hunger strike nearly two weeks ago in support of her demand that the treatment of political prisoners be accorded the suffrage prisoners. She was removed from the psychopathic ward only after her counsel, Dudley Field Malone, had pointed out the illegality of confining her in the ward when jail officials admitted there was no question of her sanity.

WINDOWS NAILED DOWN.

"Today they nailed two of my windows shut so that they cannot be opened," wrote Miss Paul. "The third window has been nailed shut at the bottom so that the only air I have now is from the top of one window. This was done by order of Dr. Gannon. He seems determined to deprive me of air because air was one of the things we demanded in our letter asking for recognition as political offenders. We have, of course, been deprived of everything else that was included in our original demand—letters, books, visitors, decent food, except such as they force on us through tubes. Two weeks ago they did give us letters like this one on the back of which I am writing."

The letter referred to is as follows: "Why not let this [illegible] creature starve. The country would be much better off without her and the balance of her gang of pickets. They are a rotten lot, and are [illegible] and should be locked up for [illegible] (Sic) if they would starve it would save the expense of keeping them. Let them starve."

"Dr. Gannon said that if I persisted in hunger striking he would write a prescription to have me taken to the psychopathic ward and fed forcibly. I was thereupon placed on a stretcher and carried there," continued Miss Paul's note. "Dr. Gannon and another doctor and several nurses then proceeded to feed me forcibly. As he was leaving the room, Dr. Cannan turned to the nurse and instructed her to 'observe' me.' The nurse 'observed' me [illegible] an hour through each night, going to the door and flashing an electric light into my face. At first I awakened each time she came. After a while I grew accustomed to it. In addition to this little device of observing, they used other means to make one know one's sanity was doubted. A Dr. Leconte came one day to examine me. I told him I did not want to be examined. Dr. Leconte then told me I was not in a mental condition, as I must, of course, know, to be able to judge things for myself. He and the two doctors and three nurses then fell upon me and took samples of my blood by force. One day, when I had a new nurse, she introduced herself thus: 'I know you are not insane.'

"She was endeavoring to be kind, but it was staggering to have people express their friendliness to you by assuring you that they did not consider you insane."

DRIVE GERMAN CRUISERS BACK TO NAVAL BAS

British Light Fleet Routs Teutons W Vessels and Escape Injury.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—German light cruisers, which fled through Helgoland Bight yesterday before British warships of similar type, were pursued to within thisty miles of Helgoland, where they came under the protection of the German battle fleet and mine fields, the Admiralty announced today.

One of the German light cruisers was observed to be in flames and the machinery of another seemed to be damaged. One German mine sweeper was sunk.

The British light forces returned without losses, with but little damage to the ships and slight casualties among the personnel. An early announcement made by the Admiralty today says:

"There is no further detailed information yet regarding the operations of our light cruisers in the Helgoland bight yesterday, beyond the fact that the enemy's light cruisers were chased by them to within thirty miles of Helgoland, until they got under the protection of their battle fleet and mine fields, when our light forces returned.

TEUTON ARTIST DEAD.

Painter Well Known in San Francisco Succumbs to Illness in Oregon Internment Camp.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 18. — Otto Weiss, formerly a well-known San Francisco artist, died yesterday in an internment camp near Portland, Or., according to a telegram received by his wife, who lived here, from the United States Marshal's office at Portland.

Weiss was removed from Sacramento to the internment camp three months after he had been adjudged an enemy alien.

The widow was prostrated with grief upon the receipt of the news, and she implored Sheriff Gormey to learn additional details regarding the death, but up to a late hour he had not been able to secure any further information.

According to friends of Weiss, he arrived in Sacramento with his wife last spring, and although he did comparatively little painting here, he is said to have an enviable reputation in San Francisco and to have turned out a number of canvases of considerable artistic merit. He was a member of the Artists' Club of San Francisco and had many friends there among artists and patrons of the galleries. He was about 36 years of age.

Petrograd Reports Pathetic Cases of Soldiers Who Have Returned from Camps Where Third of a Pound Per Day is Bread Limit. Many Die.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PETROGRAD, Oct. 26.—About one-third of a pound of bread a day and a quantity of so-called soup, consisting of water, to which has been added grass or any other kind of green stuff which the cook has been fortunate to find, composes the daily ration of the Russian prisoner-of-war in Germany, according to stories which returned prisoners have told to English Red Cross nurses here. This "soup" is served only once a day. Commenting on this situation, a nurse remarked:

"It is not surprising that many of the men die of exhaustion almost immediately after they are returned to Russia. One pitiful, shrunken hungry-looking prisoner who had just arrived from Germany, told me when questioned, that he had been treated 'very badly' in Germany. It was he who told me of the meager portion of food allowed him and his compatriots.

"In answer to my question whether the Germans themselves faired better he replies in the negative. They also, it seems literally are starving, and eating anything and everything they can find."

The exchanged Russian prisoner on arriving home is given clothes for himself, his wife and children which kind people have sewn for distribution among the repatriates. The distribution of these articles elicits calling down of blessings on the heads of the donors.

THE FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

Pure blood is the body's first line of defense against disease.

Healthy blood contains small amounts of antitoxins that neutralize the poisons of invading germs or destroy the germs themselves. That is why so many people exposed to disease do not contract it. Those whose blood is weak and therefore lacking in defensive power are most liable to infection. Everybody may observe that healthy, red-blooded people are less liable to attacks of cold and the grip than are pale, bloodless people.

To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks and lips and drive away that unnatural tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight, good wholesome food and fresh air will do the rest.

Two books, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" give just the information that every mother of a growing girl needs. They are free. Write for them today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

AUTO SHOW TO REOPEN TODAY.

Three Days More of the Exhibition Beautiful.

Los Angeles Roses to be Monday Feature.

Many Concerns Putting in New Cars.

The 1917 automobile show, staged in the Sunday tabernacle and tents under the management of the show committee of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers Association, will reopen its doors at 9:30 o'clock this morning after having remained tightly closed yesterday to all except exhibitors and officials. The original plan of the management was to close the exposition last Saturday night, but when exhibitors notified the committee that hundreds of agents, attracted by the magnitude of the show, had wired in requesting a continuance, it was decided to remain open three additional days, and the bugle will sound "lights out" for the last time on Wednesday night, according to J. S. Conwell, director-general. The hours of the show will continue to be from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

In recognition of the splendid support given by this city to the show, the committee has decided that today shall be officially known as "Los Angeles Day." The main building and tents will be festooned with thousands of the famous "Los Angeles roses," which will be given to visitors during the afternoon and evening.

Exhibitors spent yesterday in burnishing up their displays. Many dealers placed new cars on display which had been intended for the first week of the show, but which had not arrived on time, and these will serve as an added incentive to attract those who did not attend last week.

The Wood Wilson colored minstrels, have been added to the musical programme and this organization will render the quaint melodies of the South. The full orchestra of Prof. De Nubila and the Vassar Girls' sextette, led by Miss Isabel Chandler, will also remain during the continuance.

VAIL LATEST ASCOT ENTRY.

Minneapolis Winner Starts West at Once.

Patterson of Stockton is Also Possibility.

Managers to War Against Bookmakers.

Ira Vail, 1917 winner of the big Minneapolis Sweepstakes, and prime favorite with speed enthusiasts all over the country, is among the latest candidates for honors in the Liberty sweepstakes, at Ascot, on Thanksgiving day.

Local racing officials yesterday received a wire from Vail, who is now in Detroit, stating he had practically completed arrangements for a racing car, and expected to leave for Los Angeles before Thursday. Vail further said he would wire his entry the minute his deal for a racing vehicle had been concluded.

Vail is expected to drive the same Hudson Super-six with which he won at Minneapolis last summer. The car is owned by A. H. Patterson of Stockton, who is also an Ascot possibility, and is fast enough to win on any sort of a course. With Patterson and Vail hooked up as a Hudson team a new menace will loom up for Champion Louis Chevrolet. Both men have been consistent winners throughout the summer, and know mile track racing like a book.

HAILED WITH DELIGHT.

Patterson's formal entry at Ascot will be hailed with delight by Cliff Durant. The millionaire whirlwind on wheels, and Patterson, have a grudge speed duel which remained unsettled at the close of the summer season. Each man scored one decisive victory before running out of meeting places. Now they will probably hook up on the local course, and Durant is planning to put weights in his shoes and beat Patterson, no matter how fast the pace.

The last full week's practice for Liberty Sweepstakes candidates will start this afternoon, and Chevrolet with his champion Frontenac, Oldfield and the flashy Golden Submarine, Milton and his Deusenberg and Hearne with the Roamer, are expected to be among those present.

Ascot officials yesterday put the "heavy foot" down on handbook makers who are expecting to cut in on the speedway game now that they are barred from Tia Juana and the bangtails. In addition to planning a police campaign against the gamblers, the track people intend to put in a little "spy system" of their own.

CHEVROLET WARNS.

In furtherance of the plan to protect the public, Louis Chevrolet, who has been quoted in handbooks as a 7 to 5 favorite for the Liberty Sweepstakes on Thanksgiving, issued a formal statement last night warning against betting on automobile races, no matter how alluring the prospect of winning. Chevrolet pointed out the gasoline game was the most uncertain in the world, and that any little spring or bolt on a racing car could go wrong at any second and generally spill the beans for the "talent." "Never make a bet on an automobile race with the idea of winning," said the champion. "It's all right to hang up a little wager with a friend, but keep away from the professional bookmakers if you want to be safe."

COAST ARTILLERYMEN FALL BEFORE UTAH.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 18.—Little trouble was experienced by the crack football team of the Utah Artillery of Camp Kearny in blanking the Eighteenth Company, Coast Artillery, of North Island, at a game played at the Coronado polo grounds today and in piling up a score of 64-0. The artillerymen were entirely outmatched, besides having four men on the team who could not play today. Utah got ten downs and four goals. It was a good practice game for the Utah eleven, which plays for the Camp Kearny championship at the stadium on Thanksgiving. For a while the line-up was switched by Capt. King, the Utah coach, so that practically the second team was playing. A fairly large crowd was disappointed until in the last quarter the artillerymen braced up and showed a little spunk. In this quarter the first team of Utah was put in, and told to play hard, and they walked right through the artillery line.

The line-up:

Eighteenth Company—Mathews, L.E.; Ensore, L.T.; McVicar, L.G.; Frostopher, C.; Flaws, R.G.; Gyer, R.T.; Small, R.E.; Dyer, Q.; Putnam, L.H.; Patler R.H.; Bialoch, F.

Referee—Lieut. Erwin, Twenty-first Infantry.

Umpire—Mr. Pfefferhorn.

GIVEN CHANCE TO SIZE UP STANFORD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

STANFORD, Nov. 18.—Coach Wylie, of Stanford, in selecting his men for the game Saturday against the Olympic Club, gave the Stanford fans an opportunity to see the varsity in action, that with a few possible changes will meet the Santa Clara Ruggers November 24. Prior to the game Saturday the Cardinal bleacherites had no idea who would represent them in the big game with the exception of Capt. Pettingill and "Dink" Templeton, the peerless fullback. Only two last year's men were selected, thus making a Varsity of men of freshman and second Varsity caliber.

Coach Wylie stated in a recent rally held at the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, the home of Captain Pettingill, that this year's team was stronger than the one selected last year in spite of the number of fellows out. The coach also stated that if hard work and persistent training had anything to do with it the Cardinals would come out on the big end of a large score.

GOSSIP OF THE LINKS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

DR. W. COCKE is the finalist in the Brentwood Country Club tournament. He defeated C. L. Bundy in the thirty-six-hole finals on Saturday by 10 up and 9 to go. He had medal score of 82 and 86.

A. D. W. Hodgen was the winner of the weekly sweepstake cup yesterday with 6 up on 16 handicap. And in the tie for the previous week's cup between R. P. Thorndy and Dr. Hill, the latter won in the play-off.

Next Saturday and Sunday the Brentwood Country Club will play golf for the benefit of the Y.M.C.A. war fund. Thomas McCall has put up the cup and the tournament will take the form of thirty-six-hole medal play handicap. The entrance fee will be $1, all proceeds to go to the Y.M.C.A.

The ladies' weekly tournaments will also start for the winter on Tuesday.

AT GRIFFITH PARK.

The Advisory Committee appointed by Park Commissioner William M. Bowen, to assist in managing the Griffith Park municipal golf links, met last Wednesday and Charles L. Lehman was elected chairman and J. S. Aborn secretary. They will handle all the details of the field house and the links and see that the voluntary revenue provided by the golfers is used to good purpose. Mr. Lehman has appointed subcommittees for special care of the house and the greens. John P. Culp, William Tracey and Burl Armstrong, for the House Committee, and J. S. Aborn, Mrs. G. M. Midgely and Albert Shuck for the Greens Committee.

The programme of tournaments announced by the Griffith Park Golf Club will be carried out by the Advisory Committee. They will be open to any amateur on payment of 25 cents entrance fee. Members of the club with paid-up fees may enter without charge until January 1, when the club will be disbanded formally. Members joining since November 1 may enter tournaments without fee until March 1, 1918.

The tournament for the Dyas cup this week-end had seventy-seven starters. It was won by Walter S. Moore, who shot a 74 and came in 4 up on par. R. W. Torrey, F. M. Lagrange and R. V. Deliot had best gross with 73's each.

COUNTRY CLUB.

At the Los Angeles Country Club Dr. W. H. Spinks is the final winner of the fall handicap, defeating Norman Church by 4 up and 3.

In the Julius A. Brown competition there was a large entry on Saturday, and Albert Brown, a new member, was the winner with 86-18-72. Mr. Brown is connected with the Oil Well Supply Company and came here from Kansas City. Ed Tufts is pondering on that 18 handicap.

The sweepstakes resulted in a win for Dusty Millar with class A, in which he scored 79-4-75. There was a tie in class B between R. H. Gibson and S. W. Morrow, with a net 78 on 18 and 24 handicaps, respectively. Mr. Gibson won in the play-off.

HOT OFF THE GRIDIRON.

BY LEEPSON BOWNES.

THE football situation throughout the country seems to have unscrambled itself somewhat on Saturday. The teams which had been thought to be extremely strong seem to have asserted themselves until a genuine leader is to be found in almost every section of the country. There has never in all the years of football been a season with an equal number of upsets in the dope and a genuine consistent showing of class by any one team is a real boon to those who like to be able to forecast with some small degree of certainty the results of a day's games.

* * *

The local situation, as far as college football is concerned, is about the most unsatisfactory in the country, due to the fact that U.S.C., apparently the strongest of the local teams, gets no opportunity to prove it. In the conference, the race has settled as far as everybody is concerned except Occidental and Pomona. Throop is in the cellar, Whittier one peg higher and Redlands another notch to the good. The Occidental-Pomona game this coming Saturday, at Claremont, will settle the conference race. Pomona has been regarded as the strongest team of the Holiness Quintette, but Occidental has been improving right along and threatens to do something devilish.

* * *

U.S.C. surprised everybody with its wonderful showing up at Salt Lake, when Utah was swamped 51 to 0. The altitude seems to have been just the thing for Rabbitt Malette. At the present time the Red and Gold team looks like the best team in the State. The Trojan's defeat at the hands of St. Mary's was a misfortune, and if Malette's crew doesn't slip one over on the skidding California squad on Thanksgiving day, there will be a lot of surprised persons around these parts. The only thing we lack this year is a game between the conference winners and U.S.C. for the benefit of the soldiers and sailors. Let's have it.

* * *

In the Northwest Washington State stands out as the unchallenged leader. Lonestar Dietz has practically the same gang that walloped Brown, at Pasadena, two seasons ago, and his victories over Oregon, Washington and the Aggies place him right at the top of the column and strongly in line for a hand in the New Year's Day festivities, at Pasadena, unless it is decided to use the Mare Island squad, which has been cutting so much ice during the season.

* * *

In the Middle West Ohio State w ned his new play- diluted right to prattle about the championship of everything within reach, the only other team in that district with anything to cheer about being the Notre Dame squad which rambles around playing teams which make it almost impossible to make a comparison. The Notre Dame victory over the Army gives a hint at the real strength of this team but, unfortunately, it does not meet any of the Big Ten teams and no line can be had on it.

* * *

In the exclusive East Pittsburgh is having its customary big season. Glenn Warner seems to have them all licked back there, and even put one over on the Pennsylvania team after it had begun to hit its stride. So far no one has been able to even get the Pitt boys excited and they seem reasonably certain of recognition as eastern champs. Pennsylvania and Syracuse must be given credit for finishing in a blaze of glory after a none too good start. Penn's defeat of Michigan and Syracuse's slaughter of the strong Colgate squad, show that these two teams are playing high-grade football now.

* * *

Georgia Tech seems to be out after the nonstop scoring record. Starting off with something like a forty-point victory over the University of Pennsylvania and following it up with twice that many points against Vanderbilt, the Georgians rolled up another terrific score on the Carlisle Indians, Saturday, lacking only two points of the hundred they wanted. The Georgians seems to have a team of tremendous scoring power, headed by Guyon, the demon Indian half-back, and no record of the year is complete without the achievements of the southerners.

* * *

The local prep situation seems to have cleared up likewise. Sid Foster's Manual Arts squad is apparently the best of the city schools, although the strong line of the L. A. High team may upset matters a trifle on Friday. San Diego has been eliminated and the two strongest out-of-town squads are Pomona and Long Beach, although Fullerton and Santa Ana are right up in the running. South Pasadena likewise has a strong eleven, which has yet to be tested against the better known elevens. From the showing made by Coach Leonard's boys they have a strong bid in for the title. Harvard Military looked tremendously strong until it met Pomona a few days ago, when the team went all to pieces and was swamped under a huge pile of points.

Army and navy officers are asking that the harbor be made dry. The only way to do it is to vote yes on No. 1 on the ballot.—[Advertise-

FOWLER IS READY FOR RETURN MATCH.

A return match between Mike Golindo and Monk Fowler is the main attraction announced by Jack Doyle, for his Vernon arena tomorrow night. This pair of huskies recently met in one of the hardest fought battles seen in the Vernon ring in several months. Golindo lost the decision in their last engagement.

Joe Golindo, brother to the battling Mike, will appear on the same card against Johnny Rees, of the Naval Reserves. This bout should almost equal the main event as both are high-class performers. The preliminary programme follows: Young Brown vs. Jack Mann, 125 pounds; Eddie Huse vs. Joe Pena, 158 pounds; Kid Denby vs. Henry Gastine, 125 pounds; Dick Brenton vs. Charlie Roselli, 116 pounds; Sidney White vs. Hawley Gibbons, 118 pounds. Seven bouts will be staged on this week's bill.

STARS OF SIXTEEN CITIES WILL BOX.

OLYMPICS TO PUT ON REGULAR CARNIVAL.

Fighters Coming to Coast from New York, Canada, Pacific Northwest and Mexican Border—Tourney will be Largest Ever Held in this Part of Country.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Sixteen of the largest cities of the United States will be represented by champion fighters at the Red Cross boxing tournament to be held at the Auditorium next Thursday and Friday nights, under the auspices of the Olympic Club. The fighters are coming from New York and Canada the Middle West, Pacific Northwest and the Mexican border, to help the Red Cross and try and grab the prizes which the Olympic Club is offering to the winner.

The list of men entered is the largest ever received at a boxing tournament in any part of the country. It is so large that special elimination matches will have to be held in order to reduce the entrants to a number which can be properly handled in the two night's fighting. Four United States champions, two Canadian champions, three Western Canadian champions, four United States Far Western champions and seventeen other men holding championship titles for different districts in this country are included in the entries.

Men who will battle to retain their United States championships are recognized in the East as the fastest and cleverest boys who have ever won United States titles. Jack Tomasula, of New York, is the National featherweight champion; Tommy Murphy of Kansas City, lightweight champion; Lieutenant Earl Baird of Seattle, special 125-pound champion and Eugene Brosseau of Montreal, Can., middleweight champion, are the headliners of the classy aggregation which the Olympic Club offers to the public in the coming fights.

REAL STUFF.

The fight fans are looking forward with keen interest to the main events each night, with especially-arranged matches in which a national champion will fight a picked opponent. On Thursday night National Champion Tommy Murphy will scrap with Sam Eckstein of the Olympic Club, Pacific Coast lightweight champion.

On Friday night Eugene Brossead, the middleweight champion of the United States and Canada, will be seen in action against an opponent yet to be selected, but probably Tom Woodhouse of Seattle, the far western middleweight champion.

No better fight could be asked for than the match between Tommy Murphy and Sam Eckstein. These two boys met in Seattle last June and Murphy won the decision and took the far western championship, but the fans were not satisfied with the decision and George Green contends that Eckstein should have been handed the medal.

Murphy is not a stranger to the local fans. He is well remembered as the boy who put up such a whirlwind fight, but lost the decision to Johnny Moretto, at the exposition scraps in 1915. As with the fight at Seattle, the fans in 1915 were not convinced as to the man who actually should have received the award and there was considerable argument at the time over this fight Murphy will have strong support from a big crowd of the regulars who saw him fight here in 1915.

Since his last contest in this city, Kansas City Tommy Murphy has fought more than twenty times, and has not had a decision against him. He is a much improved fighter and carries a punch with him that has put many an opponent to sleep via the K.O. route.

IMPROVES RAPIDLY.

Sammy Eckstein, the Olympic Club champion, first attracted attention here about a year ago and has improved so rapidly that last April he won the Pacific Coast championship and later this year won the Pacific Association A.A.U. lightweight title. He is a scrapper of the same style as Murphy and the two will make a great match of it next Thursday night. Out-of-town boxers are due to arrive tomorrow. The team from the Vancouver Athletic Association will arrive then and the Seattle Athletic Club men are also due here tomorrow. The eastern champions will all be here by tomorrow night and the Multnomah Athletic Club men will get in on Tuesday.

All boxers entered in the tournament must report to Dr. M. E. Rummell at the Olympic Club tomorrow and Tuesday for physical examination. The amateur laws call for this and the Olympic Club will insist that every boxer goes though the hands of its medical director before he is allowed to enter the ring.

Many applications are being received for tickets and a big house is looked for. Every cent taken from the sale of the pasteboard goes to the American Red Cross and all the expenses of the tournament will be defrayed by the Olympic Club without drawing on the gate receipts. The tickets are on sale at Sherman-Clay's, the Palace Hotel, the St. Francis Hotel and the Olympic Club.

GRIZZLIES DEFEAT GOLDEN HILL BLUES.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 18.—In an -inning game which was called on account of darkness, the California Grizzlies, the One Hundred and -fourth Field Artillery, beat the Golden Hill Blues, 8 to 5. The Grizzlies, with their many major league players, played speedy baseball, but the Blues held their own, staging a grand rally in the sixth. At the end of the fifth the score was 8 to 1, the Grizzlies making all five runs in that inning. Hearne of the Americans was catcher for the Grizzlies, and Lefty Johnson of the Olympic Club pitched for the Camp Kearny crowd. Croll of the made a three-base hit in the seventh. Considerable excitement followed a run of the Golden Hill Blues when two small rooters for the Blues nearly had a fist fight over the score board as to whether the Blues scored one or two when of the Blues scored and of the same team didn't his base.

The score was kept correctly, for Grace Kissenger, a young high school girl who knows as much baseball as a big leaguer, kept the official score. On the Grizzlies' were Fitzsimmons of the Portland league, Butler of the St. Louis Pappa of the Northwestern League, Lefty Johnson and

NAVAL TRAINING STATION STRENGTHENS ITS NINE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NAVAL TRAINING STATION, BALBOA PARK, Nov. 18.—Determined that no landsmen shall have more than a mere chance to defeat them, the sea dogs here are clearing decks for action in the baseball firmament of the service teams of the Southwest. A complete reorganization of the baseball team of the naval training station was started today by Lieut. E. B. Lapham, athletic officer, and his able corps of assistants and coaches. Like good sailors, the seamen looked at their team to see what was the matter. Recently they have lost a number of games by narrow margins, possibly a run or so. It seemed that the landsmen they played with found holes in their defensive and drove right through them. It was not the fault of the batteries, as the two offensive positions were well handled.

Careful inspection disclosed that the team lacked material for second base, shortstop and right field. The leaders found themselves handicapped. Chief Petty Officer R. A. Hornaday is the manager of the squad and with the captain he picked out the trouble. Now things, they say, are going to be different, for they have found material to fill the positions needed to be strengthened.

Coming like a gift from the sky they received word that just the men they wanted were going to enlist and that they would play. These men are R. Riggs and I. Davis, both coming from the San Diego fire department. Riggs is a crack left fielder and Davis is a shortstop. Both of them played with Denver in the Western League and the promise is that they will add much of the necessary pep to the game. By switching around, the acquisition of A. S. Billings of the Naval Aviation Corps, who played last year with the Boston Red Sox, H. R. Wright will be placed on second base, and Billings will stick around home to hold down the battery of three twirlers the team has.

Riggs and Davis recently enlisted and soon will don both the navy uniform and the baseball togs of the station. All three men are good hitters. The athletic officer and others connected with the team believe the combination good.

As to twirlers the team is well off. R. E. Grimes pitched with Oakland in the Coast League, in 1915, and with Victoria, in 1916, in the Northwestern League. N. Carver, another moundsman, was formerly with the Rocky Mountain League, playing for Denver. R. Scott, also a pitcher, is a youngster who has developed and is showing in great form.

R. F. Dawson, on third, played with Vancouver in the Northwestern League. F. J. Gillespie, first baseman, and J. J. Kost, who plays center field, figured in the fast Trolley League of Northern California. H. R. Wright, G. G. Courtwright, right fielder, are some fast youngsters discovered right in the station.

SIGNAL MEN PULL SAND-LOT STUFF.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CAMP KEARNY, Nov. 18.—When an ardent group of baseballers gathered from the One Hundred and Fifteenth Field Signal Battalion, Wednesday, for a game with the One Hundred and Forty-fifth Field Artillery, they were disappointed to find that, through some misunderstanding, the Utah boys were already playing a game. Consequently the Signal Corps men did as the sand-lot boys do, went over in a small corner of the big parade grounds and started a game of their own.

Lieut. J. I. Davis, coach for football, is acting athletic officer of the organization for Lieut. Walter A. Grayson.

The signal men have good material for a fast team. Lieut. Gregory, who holds down third, was a star at Westminster College, Denver. Sergt. S. I. Roop, who presides over the mess table, for Cos. B and C, is captain of the team. He was a fast player for Westminster.

Joe Dresen, who is covering second, was once a crack man for East Denver High. Ellis, a former coach for the freshmen of University of California, is playing in left field, while Bill Carmen, from Trinidad High, is one of the recent arrivals to strengthen the team.

Charlie Poole, who injured his arm, three years ago, while catching for the Vernon team, is in trim now and ready to play. He is a company cook.

SEAMEN ANXIOUS TO MIX WITH WHITTIER.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NAVAL TRAINING STATION, BALBOA PARK, Nov. 18.—E. Marty, of the seamen's basketball team, left Saturday for Whittier to make arrangements for a game in the Quaker town with the crack High School there. As the Quakers have a reputation for supporting their basketball five and for turning out en masse, the seamen will welcome a chance to play the champions. No doubt the seamen will go in force to the game, even though it is some distance away.

CRACK SPRINTERS AT BALBOA PARK.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NAVAL TRAINING STATION, BALBOA PARK, Nov. 18.—With the track team here laying claim to three sprinters who can do the 100 yards in 10⅗ seconds, and one good mile runner, plans are now being made for a fast relay team.

The seamen had a crack tug-of-war team, having defeated practically all in sight, but numerous transfers resulted in the team being broken up. A challenge was sent to Fort Rosecrans, where the Coast Artillerymen have one of the best of the service tugging teams, but the breaking up of the seamen team for the time being changed this. A new team will be formed.

San Pedro made only five hits but was aided greatly by poor pitching, seven bases on balls and three fielding errors.

Rose pulled the star "boner" of the game in the eighth inning when after walking three men in a row he threw the ball over the fence and all three men scored.

FIGHTER CHALLENGES FROM THE STAGE.

Mickey O'Riley will challenge from the Burbank stage this week Los Angeles fighters, weighing in the neighborhood of 133 pounds. O'Riley recently challenged Salvadore, and this week, appearing in vaudeville at the Burbank, will give an exhibition in conjunction with some songs of the Southern darkey. At every performance he will step towards the footlights and invite anyone to go a few rounds with him on the stage. The Burbank management has made arrangements to properly referee all bouts, and Mickey feels confident that some one will step up and take up his challenge. Frankie Garcia, who is leaving for San Francisco this week to attend a boxing tournament, is making arrangements before he leaves to have Mickey meet some of his fighting friends.

FULLERTON WILL LOSE ITS GROUNDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Fullerton will have a baseball team in the Winter League for a few weeks at least. It cannot have one for the entire winter, as its diamond will be cut into a month or six weeks by the advent of the Pacific Electric Railroad. Arrangement may be made for a transfer of the team to Anaheim, when the team loses its grounds here. In case a deal can be made with Anaheim the team will be called the Fullerton-Anaheim nine. The first game of the season is to be played at Fullerton on Sunday, November 25.

"Ill Wind" Blew Him no Good.

Ryan, in his gratitude, offered one of the men a drink. The guardsmen refused and arrested him.

In Police Court Judge A. J. Harrod fined Ryan $100 and sentenced him to thirty days in jail. He then paroled Ryan, who is a clerk for the Kansas City Northwestern, to his superior.

Ryan told Judge Herrod he had purchased liquor in a Kansas City (Mo.) drug store.—[Kansas City Star.

TROJANS BACK TODAY TO PREPARE FOR MARINES.

THE University of Southern California will return to this city this morning and start practice for the game with the Mare Island marine football team next Saturday afternoon at Washington Park.

The Marines, headed by Johnny Beckett, former Oregon star, will arrive in town Thursday, so as to get in a couple of days' practice on the turf at the ball park before the game. The practice will be behind closed gates.

Th U.S.C. team will also work out at Washington Park a couple of days before the game under the direction of Coach Cromwell. The Trojans are playing a great game now, and, with the addition of a few stars from the freshman squad, they will show the Marines a battle.

Beckett is anticipating a harder game than has been given the Marines this season and is bringing his full squad with him.

The game will undoubtedly be the best staged in the south this year and a game worth going to see.

Hollis Huntington, who showed up so well against the University of Pennsylvania last year at Pasadena, will be at full-back for the Marines, and Bailey, Hall and Mitchell, who also were in the Oregon line-up on that day, will be seen in action Saturday, as they are all regulars on the Mare Island eleven.

Vernon Brown, quarter-back, is considered the best man at the position in the West, and Lone Star Dietz says he is the best field general he has ever coached.

Lieut. Newton Best, a Los Angeles boy, has the team under his wing and is very anxious for the fans of his home town to see the best football team in the West in action. The Marines have beaten all the best college teams on the Coast, and if they down the U.S.C. boys on Saturday they will be the undisputed champions of the Pacific Coast.

SERVICE SPORT TALK.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CAMP KEARNY, Nov. 18.—Ralph Deems, last year's captain of Oxy's football squad, is a "buck" private in the Ordnance Department of the Fortieth Division at Camp Kearny. He will coach the One Hundred and Fifteenth Sanitary Train football men.

Curly Davis, who was one of the promising backs on the Venice Poly High team, and a brother of Chet Davis, captain and quarter at Venice, is one of the stars of the seamen's team at Balboa Park. He is digging up the dust and reports are that he is one of the mainstays of the team.

It is a new handle that Earl Mohan, erstwhile fight promoter, who teased Joe Rivers, Ad Wolgast, Battling Chico and Harry Atwood into battling condition, now has. The new cognomen is "Private Earl Mohan" and he is mighty proud of it. There is much talk among the men of seeking to have him appointed as a sort of fight promoter for Camp Kearny and other service teams. He is a member of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, and is in a position to get results from programmes. Here's hoping Earl will get his hand into the service boxing game and match some real live wires, such as can be found on all sides. One-Round Hogan is camped not far from Mohan, so is "Knock 'em" Mallette, an Arizonan, and a whole bunch of others.

A suggestion has been made that a picked team from Camp Kearny play a game of Rugby on Thanksgiving against the Arden Club of Los Angeles, the game to be called at 1:30 o'clock. If John R. Case, Jr., the athletic director for Camp Kearny, can get this over it will be appreciated, for the soldiers would all like to see Rugby by way of diversion.

With his genial smile, C. R. Church, former coach for Santa Monica High, for Alhambra High and various other schools, walked or rode into Camp Kearny the other day to take over the work of handling the athletic work for Y.M. C.A. No. 4. With characteristic speed he began right away and was soon on terms of friendship with most of the officers in the units near his "Y." In short order he had the ground near the building cleared and basketballs began to buzz over his head. He was associated with the Los Angeles playground work, and last summer was coach for football and basketball at California. He has a contract to handle the summer games at the university for the coming summer, but says he likes the army work better and feels he can do more good at it. As army sports are only just beginning, he realizes the wide scope of action for development.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McDonald of No. 119 North Bailey street, Los Angeles, were recent visitors at Camp Kearny, coming to see their son, Gerald McDonald, formerly a freshman in Los Angeles High. The young man, who is a machinist in the One Hundred and Sixtieth Machine Gun Battalion, was taken down with rheumatism. Another son, Donald, is at American Lake.

It looks like the Seamen will not let George Pineau's sweeping challenge for a mat tussle go by unanswered. The Balboa Park men have some huskies in their midst and surely some one of them can put up a lively contest for Pineau.

The pitching of "Fig" Newton of Co. I, One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Infantry, won a game with Co. M of the same unit in a baseball game by 7 to 2. Fielding and hitting by Sharkey of Co. I was also a feature of the contest.

V. Andrade of Co. D, One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Infantry, got a single, a double and a three-bagger in a game recently with the Golden Hill Blues at Golden Hill.

Many athletic features are being planned by Rev. Martin C. Kearing his assistant, Rev. Graham L. D Reynolds, and by Benno M. Brink of the Knights of Columbus. The addition of the Catholic building will greatly aid the facilities at Camp Kearny.

VOTE "NO" ON NUMBER 1

VOTERS, Number "1" gives a death blow to one of Southern California's chief industries — the making of sweet wines. Only sour wines, most of which is made in the north, containing less than 14 per cent alcohol, could be used. Our people will not use sour wines to any extent. Number One deprives them of the health-giving, invigorating sweet wines. VOTE NO!

Vote "NO" on Number 3

VOTERS, Number "3" licenses only certain dealers to distribute or sell wine. It abolishes the present system wherein producers and manufacturers sell direct to the public, at the smallest expense. Number "3" brings in the middleman, which means higher prices for wine and poorer quality. VOTE NO!

Vote "NO" on Number 4

VOTERS, Number "4" is an insult to your intelligence. If it is necessary to abolish strong liquor, why not prevent its manufacture? This the United States government has already done. In a few months money cannot buy whiskey and other strong drink. That question is settled. VOTE NO!

VOTE "NO"

Voters, this ad is written to put before you our side of this question. We are a $10,000,000 industry — a Los Angeles grape growing and wine producing industry, paying an annual tax of $2,250,000. Should we be destroyed — should our products, used by millions all over the United States, be denied to those who want them—who feel that they are necessary to health and right living?

Los Angeles Wine Producers Association

Classified Liners.

AGATE TYPE ONLY.

Accepted subject to the following rates and rules:

Rates: The rate for inserting PREPAID classified or liner advertisements in the Daily Times is 1c per word each insertion; in the Sunday issue, 1½c per word each insertion, minimum charge 25c, applicable to each single or nonconsecutive insertion except under the following classifications, the rate for which is 2c per word daily, 2½c per word Sunday, minimum charge applicable to a single insertion and to each nonconsecutive insertion, 30c daily, 35c Sunday: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," "Stocks and Bonds," "Money to Loan," "Realty and Chattels," "Diamonds and Jewelry," "Physicians," "Medical," "Detectives," "Sanatoriums," and "Baths and Massage."

An extra charge of 25 per cent. is made for the use of capital letters.

Minimum space for classified advertisements ordered for more than one insertion, 14 words.

White spaces and dashes are charged for on the basis of seven words to a line.

Ads set solid are counted strictly by the word. For paragraphed or lined-up matter set in caps, estimate five (5) average words to the first line; not set in caps, estimate five (5) words for the first line, and eight (8) average words to each line following. In this kind of advertising the actual number of words set solid is counted, and eight (8) words added for each unfilled line.

On and after May 1, 1917, Classified Advertising CHARGED TO ACCOUNTS will be computed on the basis of 8 cents a line daily and 12 cents a line Sunday under classifications subject to the prepaid rates of 1 cent and 1½ cents per word; and 16 cents a line daily and 20 cents a line Sunday under classifications subject to the prepaid rates of 2 cents and 2½ cents a word. Minimum space two (2) lines.

The Times reserves the right to classify all advertisements under appropriate headings.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephone advertisements.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Errors not the fault of the advertiser, which clearly lessen the value of an advertisement, will be rectified only by republication without extra charge, on presentation of receipt within five days after insertion. No allowance will be made where the error does not materially affect the sense or purpose of the advertisement.

No adjustment will be made for advertising items not affected by an error or errors which may occur in other items in the same advertisement.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times for payment of "liners," as no mistake can be rectified without them.

The Times will not accept phone or verbal orders to discontinue or charge "till forbid" advertisements.

Advertisements ordered for insertion in Sunday's Times cannot be discontinued or changed after 8 o'clock p.m. Saturday.

Telephone orders to discontinue advertising in The Times are numbered in the order of their receipts, and in each instance the number of the order is given to the advertiser, who should make a record thereof. In case of dispute no charge for advertising will be rebated unless the "stop order" number is presented to The Times by the advertiser.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 100,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times," Main 8200, Home 10391, any time of day or night, and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times does not knowingly accept objectionable advertisements of any kind or character—medical, whisky, turf, lottery, "get-rich-quick," etc.—and it uses every reasonable precaution to keep its advertising columns clean and wholesome.

This is a guaranty of protection to its readers, as well as to its legitimate advertisers.

INSTANT SERVICE FOR TIMES PATRONS.

MINING—

DO YOU WANT TO GET IN ON THE GROUND floor into one of California's old gold mines? Discovered in 1871, and shut down since 1875. United States patent. Produced while operating over $1,000,000. I took hold of the old mine 18 months ago and up to date I have spent over $40,000 in opening up the mine. I have opened up a large body of high-grade milling ore. In place. On the dumps and in the old stopes there are thousands of tons of low grade free milling ore that could not be worked in early days, but with modern methods will give large profits. The deepest workings are only 250 feet further from the surface. I want about $30,000 for equipment and further improvements to make it a good paying enterprise. Do you want to join me? A, box 113, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR SALE—OR BOND LUCAS AND ROYAL quartz mines, near Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras county; tunnel 880 feet in length, cutting ledge 146 feet from surface, amount of ore taken out to date, 18,000 tons; ledge from 2 to 9 feet wide; pay ore in 2 chutes; a north and south north chute 300 feet in length where most of ore came from, south chute developed ore at 180 feet and still continues; values run from $80 per ton to $148. There is 40 feet of ore where the assays run $75.44, $52, $36.50, $16.30. Mine can be operated by either water or electric power. Will give easy terms to responsible parties. NEW EQUIPMENT IN WYOMING DISTRICT.

BUILD RIG FOR DRILLING IN BIG HOLLOW FIELD.

Apparatus will be Used in Embar Sand Strata—Plans are Completed for Erection of Big Refinery at Laramie by Apex Company—Work to Start Soon.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LARAMIE (Wyo.) Nov. 18.—The Petroleum Oil Fields Company has been unloading three cars of equipment in the Big Hollow field, including a heavy standard rig capable of drilling to a depth of 4000 feet. This rig is now being set up on the company's lease on section 18, and it is expected that drilling will start soon. The objective will be the Embar sand, which lies at a depth of about 2100 feet, where good production is regarded as probable, from the experience of operators who have drilled to this same sand in other fields. The Pennsylvania series lies within practicable drilling depth in this field, being only about a thousand feet lower than the Embar.

A report was published in this city and given wide credence that well No. 11 of the Wyoming Apex Oil Company, in this same field, which was recently brought in with every indication of being a good producer, was a flowing well. This statement was later declared by the officials of the company to be false, but they claim to have a 400-barrel pumping well.

Plans have been completed for the erection of the large refinery at this place by the Apex Refining and Drilling Company, and as soon as weather conditions warrant work will be commenced. The production in the Big Hollow field is increasing all the time, and the new refinery of the Apex company will have a practical monopoly of the crude oil produced in this vicinity. The officers of the corporation state that it is the present intention of the Apex company to run out pipe lines to important cities in neighboring States, once the refining plant has been completed

TEUTON "BAD MAN" AT LAST SUBDUED.

AUSTRIAN IS WORSTED IN POOLROOM FIGHT.

Known as Terrorist in Local Colony and Alleged to Have Killed an Arizonan Several Months Ago, He Meets with Defeat.

"The Terrible Austrian," Mike Mutich, who for years has been the despair of police officials and the bogie of his countrymen, has been at last subdued. Mutich was struck on the head yesterday and his skull fractured in a rough-house row at Temple and Main streets. At the Receiving Hospital last night physicians said that he might recover.

Mutich first broke into police circles five years ago when he robbed a man of $700. The theft of the money was verified and Mutich sent to San Quentin for his crime. The evidence which convicted him was collected by Detective Roy Shy.

After a little less than three years in San Quentin, he was released and went to Bakersfield where he deliberately shot a man. Through a technicality he secured his liberty and went to Arizona where he became a deputy sheriff in Yavapai county.

Five months ago he was arrested on a charge of killing a man in Yuma, Ariz., and at present is out on bonds. He came to Los Angeles several days ago and at once became the bully of the local Austrian colony. All of his countrymen spoke of him as a "bad man" who carried a gun, and who would shoot to kill.

Yesterday afternoon he visited a pool room at Temple and Main streets, and after lounging around for an hour or more, he approached John Artukovich and Kristo Chulock, demanding money of them. He told the men that unless they gave him some money he would arrest them. He then showed his Arizona badge.

Artukovich and Chulock, who are more than six feet tall, each, and are proportionately "husky," refused to pay the "terrible Austrian." It is alleged that Mutich then reached for his hip pocket, as though to draw a revolver. The two men whom he had accosted immediately jumped for him, and a "rough house" resulted.

The conflict was brought to a sudden end, however, as an unknown person struck Mutich on the top of the head with a billiard cue and fractured his skull.

They were arrested by Officer McAuliffe, who almost had to send in a riot call to get his prisoners to the station. Mutich is being held, pending his recovery, for several burglaries and hold-ups which have recently occurred. Artukovich and Chulock were released on their own recognizance by Officer McAuliffe and Detective Shy. According to the latter sufficient evidence has been found to send Mutich to prison for life, if he recovers.

ARRESTED AS ROBBER.

Man on Parole After Serving a Term for Burglary Tries to Escape From the Officers.

Charged with several recent robberies and hold-ups, John R. Cabreras, an ex-convict, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Kirby and Canto at No. 1212 Stanford avenue and placed in the City Jail.

The police allege that on the 11th inst., Cabreras broke into and robbed the apartment of Miss B. Teigs, of No. 1339 Ingraham street, securing jewelry valued at $200.

Cabreras attempted yesterday to escape from the officers after he had been arrested and failing in this, he tried to hide several hundred dollars worth of jewelry which he had wrapped up in a handkerchief in his coat pocket. He has been at liberty but a few days, on parole, after spending four years of a twelve-year sentence for burglary.

Col. Young, who served in the Philippines with the late Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, is a lifelong friend of the Bambergers. This reminds me of an incident that happened this afternoon. Passing a group of visitors, one of them spotted the red "C" on my arm, which is worn by all war correspondents.

"Oh look, look quick," she said. "See that man with a "C" on his arm. He must be a colonel. But nobody offered to kiss me. That's probably because I am so young and handsome that to get kissed in public would cause talk.

Tomorrow I am going to wear a red letter "P" on my arm in the hope that somebody will point me out as the President.

It was visiting day and the embargo on home-cooked food from the outlying kitchens was raised. A steady stream of grub passed into the camp and was delivered to the ultimate consumer in baskets, shoe boxes and other forms of camouflage. There were many visitors, but only a few celebrities. Most of the celebrities who came down to San Diego Friday night for the review and overslept Saturday morning, thereby keeping an entire army division at a standstill, have pulled their freight. The city was packed until late today. In addition to the thousands of celebrities, hundreds of people came down to see the review and hundreds of them stuck around Sunday. Many of the wives of the officers and soldiers came down to pass Saturday and Sunday with their husbands. A delightful time was had by all.

ANGELENOS PRESENT.

I encountered a number of former Los Angeles men, who are now serving their country at Camp Kearny. Among them was Capt. Sterling Booth of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Machine-gun Company; Lieut. J. G. Foster, formerly of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank; Lieut. P. H. Montgomery, who went from the City Engineer's office to serve under Col. Hutchings in the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry; Capt. C. H. Underwood, also of the Los Angeles Trust and

TEN MONTHS' TOLL OF DEATH IN LOS ANGELES.

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN persons were fatally and 811 persons seriously injured in automobile accidents in Los Angeles during the first ten months of the year, according to a compilation made yesterday from police records. In the period ending October 31 there were more than 1500 automobile accidents within the city limits. The following table gives the injuries by months for the year to date, "serious" being used in the sense of injuries that are not immediately fatal, but which may have resulted in death later, or the loss of a limb or in partial or total disability:

SEEK SUBTERRANEAN LIQUOR CACHES.

Acting on well-developed suspicions that some of the saloon men with capacious cellars have cached more than the fifty gallons of spirits allowed them for personal use, tax free, agents of the Internal Revenue Department are planning a series of raids this week on these holes in the ground. Fifty gallons is a very liberal allowance, but when a number of barrels are hidden away, "that is something else," as Potash remarked to Perlmutter.

One Driver Dodges a Vehicle and Hits a Tree.

Eleven persons were injured in automobile and motorcycle accidents in Los Angeles and vicinity yesterday. One of them, Motorcycle Sergeant Jackson, narrowly escaped death when his motorcycle skidded on the San Fernando road. Sergt. Jackson was thrown on his back and the force of his fall was so severe that the barrel of his revolver was broken from its frame.

THREE YOUTHS HELD FOR STRANGE HUNTING DEATH.

GORDON M'HENRY, 15 years old, of No. 1110 East Adams street, and two boy companions were arrested yesterday, charged with shooting and killing Gandara Euserine, 49 years old, of Lang station, ten miles from Saugus. Young McHenry was hunting in Solidad Canyon and was shooting at a bird when the bullet from his .22-caliber rifle struck Euserine, who was riding in an automobile along the Solidad road.

George Smith, 21 years old, No. 2636 Third avenue, and Louis Hornung, 14 years old, No. 1122 East Adams street, were McHenry's companions. They were held with McHenry last night in the County Jail, pending the findings today of the Coroner's jury. The inquest will be held at W. G. Noble's undertaking parlors, San Fernando, where the body was taken.

Euserine was returning to Lang station from a trip to Saugus with Jose Gomez, a youth who was driving the automobile, and M. Gomez. Euserine was sitting alone in the rear seat. As the car passed the Irwin ranch property, Euserine said in a quiet voice:

"Stop the car, Jose, I have been shot."

Young McHenry says he saw the automobile stop, but did not realize that he had shot anyone.

The boys were arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Fox and Nolan, the same boys shot and killed a dog in Soledad Canyon yesterday morning. The dog, it was said, belonged to Mrs. E. E. Burge, No. 3906 Dorsey street.

Ready for Ballot.

LOS ANGELES MAY BECOME THE LARGEST "DRY" CITY.

Campaign on Three Proposals Nearing Close—Will Vote Tomorrow.

> HERE is a summary of the four propositions to be voted upon at the special election tomorrow:
>
> Proposition No. 1—Would abolish the saloons April 1, 1918; make the Harbor district "bone" dry; prohibit sale of intoxicating beverages in cafes, restaurants and hotels after 9 p.m.; fix the maximum of alcohol in any drinks at 14 per cent.
>
> Proposition No. 2—Would abolish the Humane Animal Commission.
>
> Proposition No. 3—Would abolish the saloons, June 30, 1918; compel breweries and wineries to sell through holders of city licenses.
>
> Proposition No. 4.—Would close the saloons December 31 1918; prohibit sale of intoxicating beverages in cafes, restaurants and hotels after midnight; fix the maximum of alcohol in any drinks at 21 per cent.

With the eyes of the entire State upon Los Angeles, the special election to be held tomorrow to decide whether the saloons shall be eliminated is considered one of the most important ever held in this city. It is generally believed from Siskiyou to San Diego, that "as goes Los Angeles tomorrow so will the State go" next fall, when the Rominger bill is to be placed before the people. Should the electors stamp out the saloons, Los Angeles will have the distinction of being the biggest "saloonless city" in the United States.

Owing to the tensity of the war conditions, there has been less interest displayed locally in the election than was anticipated. However, the various factions for and against the anti-saloon measures have waged as determined fights as they could under the circumstances, and it is believed that no less than 100,000 out of 232,000 eligibles will go to the polls.

The campaign was practically closed last night, many speeches having been made during the day, and the leaders having completed their organization to get out the vote. However, it is expected there will be some demonstrations in the city today and tonight, but nothing as spectacular as was the case a year ago, when 10,000 temperance people paraded the downtown sections.

Friends and enemies of proposition No. 2, which, if adopted, would abolish the Humane Animal Commission, got unusually busy yesterday, but neither side felt that any enthusiasm had been developed over their question. Because of the lack of interest, and because the people do not understand very thoroughly what his proposition means, the vote upon it no doubt will be small.

D. M. Gandier, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, last night issued the following statement:

Unquestionably, a large majority of the people of Los Angeles are in favor of closing the saloons, and meeting the demands of army and navy officers that the Harbor be made safe for the soldiers and sailors stationed there.

There are, however, two things upon which the saloon element is evidently counting to defeat the will of this majority:

That the opponents of the saloon will fail to vote.

That with three measures on the ballot, the issue may be confused and the temperance vote divided.

As for the first hope of the saloon defenders, we are confident they are to be disappointed. We have a better organization for this election than has ever been perfected for any other election in this city. We look for a large vote. This means that, if the issue be not confused, the no-saloon amendment, No. 1 on the ballot, will be passed.

We have, however, little fear that the efforts of the saloon element have been successful in confusing the issue.

No. 3 on the ballot received much adverse publicity when it was being circulated. That signatures were secured for it under misrepresentation, and that many opponents of the saloon were led to sign it on the statement that it was the measure being circulated by the No-Saloon Committee, was notorious. No. 3 does not protect the Harbor at all. It is so loosely drawn that it offers little remedy for the evils of the liquor traffic. It is the measure which one faction of the liquor group is now pushing. Those who understand it, and wish to see the saloons closed, will vote against it.

No. 4 on the ballot does not go into effect until a year from next New Year's. It would not, therefore, even though it were possible for it to be passed, give the protection demanded for the soldiers and sailors in training at the harbor.

Both Nos. 3 and 4 have been

CAPT. KNYVETT WINS A BRIDE.

Breaks Lecture Dates to Rush to Los Angeles.

He has been in Trenches, She is Picture Actress.

Eventually They'll Make this City Their Home.

Capt. Reginald Hugh Knyvett, of the Australian Engineer Corps, who recently gave such stirring war lectures in this city, returned in hot speed from Chicago on Saturday, and was married to Miss Lillian Isabel Maude of Hollywood at 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in St. John's Episcopal Church, Dr. George Davidson officiating.

Capt. Knyvett only met Miss Maude during his brief lecture visit here, three months ago.

When he left for the East, Miss Maude had said she would not marry him until after the war. In a letter written him last week, however, she relented sufficiently to indicate that if he had happened to be in Los Angeles now, she might have felt differently. So he just cancelled a dozen important engagements, and took the next train to California. He rushed to the University Club on arrival, annexed a few friends, including an Australian brother officer, in Capt. Cyril Chandler, who was obligingly ready to act as best man. He raced round for a license, sent out an S.O.S. call to his friend, the Rev. George Davidson, and lost no time in making Miss Maude live up to her letter.

George Ingleton, a friend of the bride, gave her away, as her parents are both in Australia.

Mrs. Knyvett is a niece of Sir Cyril Maude, the English actor, recently knighted by King George and of Brig.-Gen. Maude, of the British army. She has acted in legitimate drama with her famous uncle, and has been featured in pictures in the Hollywood studios. She is about 22 years of age, and the captain is about 28.

The young couple left for Chicago last night. After the captain has completed his lecture tour, for which he has now been officially co-opted by the government, they will return to Los Angeles to live.

Capt. Knyvett has been through both the Gallipoli and French campaigns, seen two years of thrilling war service in the very thick of the fight, been seriously wounded, and walks on a grafted leg, and gives most poignantly realistic war talks.

John Barleycorn Gets Hard Knocks in Pulpit.

Pastors Urge Church Members to go to Polls.

Booze is Kaiser's Best Ally, Says One Speaker.

In many of the pulpits of Los Angeles yesterday there were discussions of various phases of the saloon evil, and appeals to church members to go to the polls tomorrow and vote to bar the saloon from Los Angeles. One pastor pointed out the responsibility of the church members by saying that just one more vote from each of the churches of Ohio would have swung that State into the dry column at the recent election.

Rev. John Snap preached in the First Baptist Church of Hollywood on "The Passing of the Saloon," saying in part:

"John Barleycorn is dying,, but he dies hard. His breath, though just as foul as ever, has been coming in sorter gasps within the past year. Since November 1, 1916, eight wet States and one wet territory (Indiana, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, South Dakota, Utah and Alaska) have voted dry—New Mexico less than two weeks ago. State and cities that swung into the dry column two or three years ago have recently registered their utter satisfaction with the changed conditions by voting with largely increased majorities to remain dry, notably Arkansas, Washington and Denver and Seattle.

"I was living in the State of Washington when it went dry by 19,000 majority; a year later Seattle, which went wet in the first election, voted to remain dry by 20,000, a larger majority than obtained for the whole State the year before. And my old State, New York, by its recent vote in favor of the feminine franchise, has brought its dry redemption nearer.

THEY ARE DRY.

"In our own locality we have much to be thankful for. Within a year Redondo, Imperial, Blythe, San Bernardino, Colton, Modesto and San Jose have voted dry, and Santa Monica, Watts, San Diego and Los Angeles will swing into the dry column in a few days—provided the Christian people of Southern California do not grow confident and careless. Just one more vote from each of the churches in Ohio would have swung the Buckeye State into the dry column at the recent election. Let us be sure to get out next Tuesday that one more vote. 'Drinking makes thinking impossible; some day thinking will make drinking impossible'—and that day is coming, coming soon."

Dr. Charles Edward Locke, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, last night preached from the text: "They took the city," Joshua vi:20. He detailed his observations in some of the cafes of Los Angeles, and told of the peril to young girls that will be minimized by a curtailment of the cafes' liquor privileges. Continuing, he said:

"If we shall win on next Tuesday the harbor will be made dry, bone dry, and our soldiers and sailors will be protected from the vicious saloon and the numberless temptations of the whisky traffic. Our soldiers should be fortified against booze as well as against bullets. It is an honorable sacrifice when a brave soldier becomes a victim of the enemies bullets' but how disgraceful is the crime of a nation which permits its soldiers to be wounded and disabled by booze before they have a chance to defend their country. A country that will not defend its defenders deserves defeat and will surely get it. Booze in the United States is one of the Kaiser's best accomplices and the Kaiser will whip the American soldier if the American soldier is not protected from strong drink. A drunken soldier is worse than no soldier.

"Gen. Pershing recently said: 'There was a time when it was a natural part of a soldier's existence to drink and carouse. That day is past, with the soldiers sworn to defend his country's flag and representing the power and dignity of the nation. Strong muscles, clear brains, high ideals in the soldier increase the fighting efficiency of the army, and these qualities of the citizen insure the permanency of our institutions.'

"Everybody who votes against No. 1 on next Tuesday will be voting against the best interests of the soldiers and of the nation, for liquor destroys the morals and the efficiency of the army."

UTAH GIRL MISSING.

Young Bride of Soldier Disappears and Husband Hunts Her. Mother is Worried.

Police are again searching for Wanda Roskelly, a Mormon girl of 17 years, who is supposed to have left her home in Ogden, Utah, to meet her soldier bridegroom at Camp Kearny, October 24. Since that time, no authentic trace of her has been found.

Hints that her husband also is missing were received by the police yesterday. The theory that the girl has been abducted by agents of the underworld, was partly borne out yesterday by the reception of a letter from the girl's mother, which states that Mrs. Roskelly wrote her mother that she did not intend to meet her husband, when she left her Utah home, but accepted an engagement with another girl to go on a theater circuit as a singer.

Among the developments in the case yesterday was included the fact that her husband, who is stationed at Camp Kearny, is reputed to have received a two weeks' furlough to locate his wife, and now he disappeared completely from sight.

THIEF BREAKS WINDOW AND STEALS JEWELRY

A thief who entered the apartments of A. C. Scanlon, at Seventeenth street and Grand avenue, by breaking a window, early yesterday morning, secured $700 worth of jewelry, according to a report to the police yesterday by Mr. Scanlon.

BUTCHERS NOT TO SELL MEAT.

Strict Observance of Food Economy Measure is Agreed On.

Official recognition by Southern California butchers of the food administration's efforts to curtail the use of meat and the observance of meatless day every Tuesday, was given at a meeting of the Retail Butchers' Association of Southern California held in the offices of the association at room 509 Wesley Roberts Building, yesterday.

The association has issued instructions to each of its 150 members to refrain from the sale of meat in any form on Tuesdays hereafter, and to promote the sale of fish and game.

placed on the ballot by the liquor interests to confuse the issue and divide the temperance vote. Many of the "wets" and all of the drys" are fighting them. They will certainly be defeated.

This is now so well understood that few will be misled into voting against the no-saloon measure.

The no-saloon measure, which is No. 1 on the ballot, is the only one of the three that meets the emergency at the harbor. It is the only one which offers opportunity to close the saloons in Los Angeles at this time. It is the only one that meets the demand of a large majority of the people of Los Angeles. It is the only one that can be passed. Our committee closes the campaign confident that it will be passed.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE.

President John Shepek of the Family Liquor Dealers' Association said, last night, he is confident that a majority of the people will support proposition No. 3. He said there is no gainsaying the contention that the public is opposed to the saloon, but that a majority of the people are willing to restrict the cafes, restaurants and hotels to 9 o'clock service, he said, is unbelievable.

Among organizations that have indorsed proposition No. 3 is the Colored Men's Working Club, which held a meeting Saturday evening and pledged support to the measure. President Shepek said a strong appeal had been made to the street car employees, who have a membership of 10,000, and that proposition No. 3 is looked upon with favor by the working classes.

"This proposition will close the saloons on June 30," said President Shepek. "That is what the people are interested in. They want to get rid of the saloon, but they are not anxious to burden themselves with the extra assessment of $125,000 which must be made up by the people if the saloons are voted out April 1. The city dudget was prepared in anticipation of receiving revenue from the saloons up to June 30. That is why we fixed that as the date for the closing of the bar-rooms."

SENTIMENT IS DIVIDED.

While the United Industries, an organization representing all phases of the liquor industry, is advising everyone to vote no on all of the anti-saloon propositions, the California Taxpayers' League is advocating the adoption of proposition No. 4. This has caused some confusion among the liquor men, but it is generally believed that, aside from the family liquor store element and some of the cafes, the liquor interests' will vote no on everything.

WHAT IS FIDO'S FATE?

Proponents of the proposition No. 2, which would abolish the Humane Animal Commission, yesterday secured the signatures of some Assemblymen and club leaders to unqualified indorsements of the measure. The Assemblymen who signed the indorsement are Frank Mouser, Edwin Baker, Alfred L. Bartlett, Charles W. Lyon, Thomas Ambrose, Henry H. Yonkin, and Peter Phillips. The club women are Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, Mrs. E. C. Bellows, Mrs. M. E. Johnson, Mrs. W. C. Tyler, Miss Mary Foy, Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, Mrs. Chester C. Ashley, Mrs. Lewis R. Works, Mrs. John Sobieski.

Friends of the commission who are working zealously to prevent its elimination yesterday laid particular stress upon the fact that the Council, a few days ago, enthusiastically indorsed that department of the city government. The Council adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, it has been called to the attention of the Council that the argument prepared by the proponents of the initiative ordinance to be voted upon at the election to be held November 20, and designated on the ballot as proposition No. 2, contains the following statement:

"Because the Efficiency Commission, after a thorough investigation, recommends that in the interests of efficiency and economy, the present system of the Humane Animal Commission be abolished;" and

Whereas, this Council is informed by the Efficiency Commission and its employees, that no such recommendation has been made by such commission or employees,

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Council regrets that such statement occurs in the argument aforesaid, and that as a duty of this Council it hereby calls attention of the voters of the city that the recommendation attributed to the Efficiency Commission was not made as stated in said argument; and

Be it further resolved, that the Council, being fully cognizant of the work heretofore done by the Humane Animal Commission and the employees thereof, does hereby express its confidence in the said commission.

Miss Peggy Prevost,
Who is going to do a terpsichorean bit for the nation's defenders.

A LITTLE thing, or to be more exact, two little things, like a fall down a flight of stairs and a spill from the top of a ladder, will not prevent Peggy Prevost from appearing at the grand vaudeville entertainment to be given the United States sailors at the Harbor on the 28th inst. The former Fox actress, and present Ince player, will appear at the Thanksgiving event or die, she said yesterday.

Miss Prevost was confined to her bed yesterday as the result of a fall from a ladder on Friday evening. She landed on her right shoulder. Her physician announced that it was not dislocated, but, nevertheless, badly bruised and sprained.

"I am going to dance the 'Dawn of Morning' for the sailors, if it is the last thing I do," said the pretty star as she sat propped up in bed in the Biltmore Apartments yesterday. "This will be danced barefoot. My costume for the dawn dance will have all the shades of the rising sun. For an encore I will give a patriotic dance. My costume will be symbolic of the stars and stripes, and I will use the toe dance."

RABBI MAGNIN.
TEMPLE B'NAI B'RITH.
BE AMONGST THOSE WHO ALWAYS DEMAND THE BEST, SO THAT MEN MAY PRODUCE THE BEST THAT IS WITHIN THEM.

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin spoke at the regular Sabbath services in Temple B'nai B'rith on "Selling One's Soul for a Mess of Pottage," saying, in part:

"This is a life in which men sell their souls for a mess of pottage. The spirit of commercialism existing under a system of economic individualism, where each one must struggle for himself, nas made us surrender a big portion of our principles. In business, in professional life, yes, even in the realm of arts, the struggle for existence robs us of our spirit and we are compelled to sacrifice our innate idealism, our individuality, in order to meet the requirements of the age.

"Many a great poet, dramatist and musician in the making has been compelled to prostitute his talents to satisfy the coarse and vulgar requirements of a public, whom the publishers and impresarios and the box office barons are only too glad to cater to. The most sacred things in life are put upon a commercial basis and given over to individuals, only to become degraded. Meanwhile the idealist must conform to the standards of those in control, or live in a garret, and very few people are capable of making the sacrifice.

"I therefore ask that you be amongst those who always demand the best and teach those whom you come into contact with to raise the standard. It is for those who know to open the eyes of the blind. Let us uproot the commercializing of everything that is sacred and beautiful. We are for a world where men can live like men, and develop the best that is in them unhampered and unhindered."

BIG STRIKE IN OATMAN MINE.

Rich Ore Body Uncovered on Tom Reed Property.

United Eastern Mill Handles Large Tonnage.

Goldroad - Bonanza Company is Elated at Prospects.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OATMAN (Ariz.) Nov. 18.—One of the most important ore strikes in the history of this camp was made a few days ago in the Gray Eagle claim of the Tom Reed Mines Company. On the 200-foot level, a short distance from the shaft, an ore body was encountered which on three assays showed returns of $36, $36 and $42 to the ton. So far this vein has only been penetrated a distance of a little over a foot and the end wall is not yet in sight. This strike, together with the ore body uncovered in the Aztec claim of the same company, assures the Tom Reed company plenty of raw material for its mill for several years to come.

For the month of October the United Eastern Mining Company treated 8410 tons of ore, the largest tonnage ever run through its mill in any one month. This ore had a total gross value of $177,775.40, or $21.14 per ton. Percentage of extraction was 96.77, and total costs and losses averaged about $7.27 per ton, leaving net profits for the month of $115,490.29.

Since milling operations were started by the United Eastern mill on January 4, 1917, General Superintendent J. A. Burgess reports that a total of 68,970 tons of ore have been mined and milled, having a gross value of $1,513,454.56, or an average of $21.94 per ton. A total net profit of $971,849.29 was realized from the ten-months' operations, out of which a total of $340,000 has been paid in dividends. Average costs and losses have been $7.85 per ton.

PLEASED AT PROSPECTS.

Goldroad Bonanza stockholders have good reason to feel pleased with the future prospects of their company. F. T. Torpey, president and general manager of the company, announces that the corporation is now financed for a strong development campaign and will resume work very soon. He also states that he has received a receipt from the United States Land Office for a patent on the property, that bids have been received to contract drifting and crosscutting on the 550-foot level.

When this property closed down in July, nearly $40,000 had been spent in economical development work and a very interesting stage was reached. The management, backed by the opinion of the best mining men of the district, now feel confident that they will open up the big Bonanza ore body within 100 feet from where development is to be started.

Development work has been resumed at the Oatman United property, where two crosscuts are being driven at the 400-foot level, one to the east, towards what is held to be an extension of the Aztec-Big Jim vein, and the other to the west to explore a ledge that outcrops prominently in that direction. It was believed that this ledge was struck by the crosscut some time ago, but this proved to be a blind lead. Important disclosures are anticipated in both crosscuts very soon.

SHAFT SINKING.

Shaft sinking is now in progress on the Gold Ore property, the plant having been installed and put into good running order within less than sixty days.

Crosscutting is progressing at the United Northern, as well as at the United Oatman, where two crosscuts are being advanced from the tunnel. At the Oatman Southern the shaft is being sunk from the 100 to 200 level.

The drift along the Sheep Trail vein at the Banner mine in the Union Pass district, has progressed for over 200 feet on the 400-foot level, the intersection with the Banner having been reached. It is proposed to explore this vein also. The vein has been crosscut at regular intervals and ore blocked out, which is stated by officials of the company to assay sufficiently high in gold to constitute milling rock.

Sermon.

PASTOR PREACHES ON MAN'S PLACE.

DR. CARL S. PATTON GIVES AN APPEALING SERMON.

Every Person has Position in the World of Personal Relation in Addition to Niche in Business, Declares the New Minister of Congregational Church.

"The Presidency of the United States stretches to take an Abraham Lincoln and shrinks in order to hold an Andrew Johnson," declared the Rev. Carl S. Patton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, No. 841 South Hope street, in his sermon yesterday on "Filling One's Place."

"A man needn't worry about finding his place," asserted the pastor. "The place was born with him. It will always be as big as he makes it, and no bigger. Every man's place is just as large as he is, and no larger.

"The ambitious man is never anxious to jump ahead into a larger place. He is bent on filling the place that he already occupies. A man should never be afraid that the place is too big, but should always fear that it is too small.

"In addition to a place in the business world, man holds a place in the world of personal relations. It is a great thing for a woman to be a wonderful singer or a splendid artist or musician, but, to quote Walt Whitman, it is still a far more wonderful thing for a woman to be the mother of a superb child.

"No man ever held office but there weren't a dozen waiting to get his job, but every man fills his own place as no other man call fill it in the world of personal relations."

Auto Mishaps.

Hunter of No. 2215 Toberman street yesterday at Temple street and Broadway. The injured boy, Bert J. Emanuel, was taken to the Receiving Hospital where he was given emergency treatment by Police Surgeon Stadfield.

A tree on the road between Fullerton and Los Angeles yesterday caused Austin P. Phillips, a Fullerton rancher, to be taken to the Receiving Hospital, where several severe cuts on his head were sewed up by Police Surgeon Stadfield. Mr. Phillips, while attempting to avoid another automobile, drove his own machine against a big pepper tree and was thrown against the windshield. His two young daughters were uninjured.

A collision between two autos at the corner of Eighth street and Wilshire boulevard in Santa Monica late yesterday, resulted in a broken left arm for P. W. Shattuck of No. 312 Clay street, San Francisco, bad bruises for all other occupants of the machines, the miraculous escape without injury of a baby, and the shattering of both windshields when the cars turned turtle.

O. R. Nation of No. 3563 Van Ness avenue, was the owner of one car, in which he was riding with his wife and baby, and Mrs. R. Riggs, his wife's mother, all of the same address. Shattuck was driving. The latter was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital.

The other machine was driven by E. J. Austin of No. 2126 Hooper avenue, with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roup of the same address as passengers. This car was going north on Eighth and Nation's car was traveling west on Wilshire boulevard when the crash occurred. In a heroic effort to save her child, Mrs. Nation folded it in her arms as the smash occurred and protected it from even a scratch. The mother was badly bruised.

A MAN'S JOB. Lord Northcliffe hints that it will be necessary to give America the contract of running the war. If that is done, it will be a man's job done like a man.

WHO CAN BLAME HER? A pretty young woman of Los Angeles secured a divorce from her husband, a German aviator, who had been given the iron cross and who is now interned at Fort McDonald, Salt Lake. She is not to be blamed for getting up in the air.

WILLFUL BLINDNESS. The District-Attorney of Oakland has warned Prof. Nearing not to attempt to speak in that city on the subject of peace. Forewarned is forearmed, but since the pacifists do not believe in being armed for anything at any time, let them suffer the consequences of their folly.

THE LUCKY MAN. A local cigar girl was awarded $5000 in Superior Court in her suit against an Angeleno for breach of promise. It is a pretty safe bet that the next man who promises to marry her will have no desire to cancel his engagement—not a-tall, not a-tall!

FUTILE KNOWLEDGE. An eastern astronomer declares that Methuselah only lived to the age of 83 instead of 1000 years, the age for which he has so long been given credit. That star gazer had better get busy raising spuds. What difference does it make to anybody now, or to Methuselah either, for that matter, how long the patriarch lived?

VIBRATIONS. When a train goes rumbling through the country, little cottages half a mile away from the track are often shaken as if an earthquake had struck them. What makes the house tremble? "Vibrations," answers some one. Yes, but what are vibrations and how are they sent from one object to another? This medium through which substance and forces move and yet which somehow prevents "the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds"—does it contain the secret of intelligence and power? Humanity has learned its a, b, c's in regard to the existence and control of natural laws, but of the source of those laws and the reason for them the greatest scientists seem to be as ignorant as was the first savage who ever shrank from the thunder clap or the lightning flash.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST. O. H. Willis of Yuma, who once lived in the little pueblo of Los Angeles, but who left this pretty village in order to enjoy the metropolitan gayeties of Yuma, is back "in our midst" visiting with old-time friends. Mr. Willis tells a story on himself illustrating the lack of faith which a great many people of thirty years ago had in the destiny of the queen city of the West. "When I was here in 1874," said Mr. Willis, "the population of Los Angeles was about 8000. I left the city at that time and did not return until 1887. As I walked down the street I met my old friend William M. Caswell, who greeted me with the remark, 'Well, what do you think of our city now? Fifteen years ago when you and I were here together there were less than 8000 people here. Now just look at the old town! But we're not done growing yet. One of these days Los Angeles is going to be a city of 50,000 people.'" "Caswell," smiled Willis, "this city life is affecting your mind—better go to the desert with me and take a good long rest."

THE PARIAH. It is the landed proprietors, industrial lords, financial magnates and civil and military officials in Germany, and not the German people, who demand annexations, indemnities, and other peace terms which it is impossible for the Allies to grant.

It is not to be denied that the revolutions in Russia, coupled with the German successes on the Italian frontier, have encouraged the German authorities to continue a contest which otherwise they must soon have abandoned, and it is not improbable that the war, which seemed a few months ago to be approaching an end, may last for years.

But whatever the terms of peace may be, Germany will emerge from the contest an industrial ruin. The civilized world will not for generations forget the murder of noncombatants, the raping of women, the torture of prisoners, the destruction of homes, the sinking of ships and drowning of passengers and crews, and the assassination from airplanes of women and children in the public parks of cities, which have marked the conduct of this war by the German forces.

In the United States there should be a remodeling of our naturalization and immigration laws so as to exclude Teutons from this country as rigidly as we now exclude Chinese. Articles of German manufacture will not be imported very freely into this country, for Americans will not buy them, and there will be a practical, if not a legal, embargo on exportations to Germany.

Germany will be—as she deserves to be—the pariah and the outcast of nations.

THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF UNCLE SAM. Seven months ago the aggressions of the German autocracy forced the United States into war. The nation was then suddenly confronted with the task of developing a military machine able to cope with and defeat that of the Kaiser, which it had taken forty years to bring to perfection. The industrial, financial, commercial and scientific energies of the nation, long devoted to the arts of peace, had to be reorganized, co-ordinated and diverted to the purpose of supplying arms, munitions, supplies and equipment for the colossal military and naval forces called into being by the crisis.

Because as a nation we have always loved peace and detested war we had no adequate military establishment. Our regular army numbered scarcely 200,000 trained men. The National Guard was neither trained nor equipped to meet modern military conditions. The navy, while ranking third among the great powers of the world, was by no means on a war footing. New conditions, created by the sudden development of the submarine by Germany, called for an entirely new type of war craft. Instead of heavily armored battleships and cruisers, hundreds of small, swift vessels of a special type became necessary to meet these new conditions.

In spite of these handicaps, in less than seven months, the regular army has been practically doubled in numbers, its equipment changed to meet the new requirements, approximately 300,000 fighting men have been transported across 3000 miles of submarine-infested seas and are now with Lieut.-Gen. Pershing, either fighting in the trenches or just back of the firing line completing their training. The selective draft law has been passed and put into operation, so that nearly 700,000 men are today in the sixteen National Army training camps.

In addition to the accomplishment of this Herculean task, sixteen cantonments and as many smaller camps have been built. These cantonments are capable of housing approximately 1,000,000 men and their officers. Supplies in the way of arms, ammunition, food and clothing for this vast army have been provided and our men in the camps, both at home and abroad, are admitted by all who are competent to judge, to be the best fed, the best clothed, the best housed and the best equipped generally of any of the great armies now engaged in the world conflict.

Our navy has been increased fully fivefold. Old fighting ships have been overhauled and equipped with the very latest in war's mechanical appliances. Destroyers, cruisers and at least two battleships of the super-dreadnaught type have been launched and several more are on the ways well along toward completion. Hundreds of lighter craft have been outfitted as submarine chasers, and destroyers are being launched almost every week. Each day marks the addition of new merchant marine tonnage from shipyards that have sprung into being as by magic all over the country and ere another seven months have passed the American flag will again hold a position on the seven seas that will be second only to that held by Great Britain.

Machinery has been perfected for the raising of an additional 4,000,000 men; and so completely have our industrial, agricultural and transportation systems responded to the nation's needs that when this immense army is called to the colors every detail of the arrangements for handling, feeding and equipping them will have been perfected and the men will be trained, outfitted and transported overseas with the same smoothness, efficiency and dispatch that has marked the handling of the first mammoth unit raised.

The new National Army, composed as it is of officers and men who five months ago were engaged in peaceful pursuits, is today well advanced in training. Thousands of clear-eyed young men have gone to the officers' training camps and by dint of the hardest work and the closest application have grounded themselves in the fundamentals essential to commanding men.

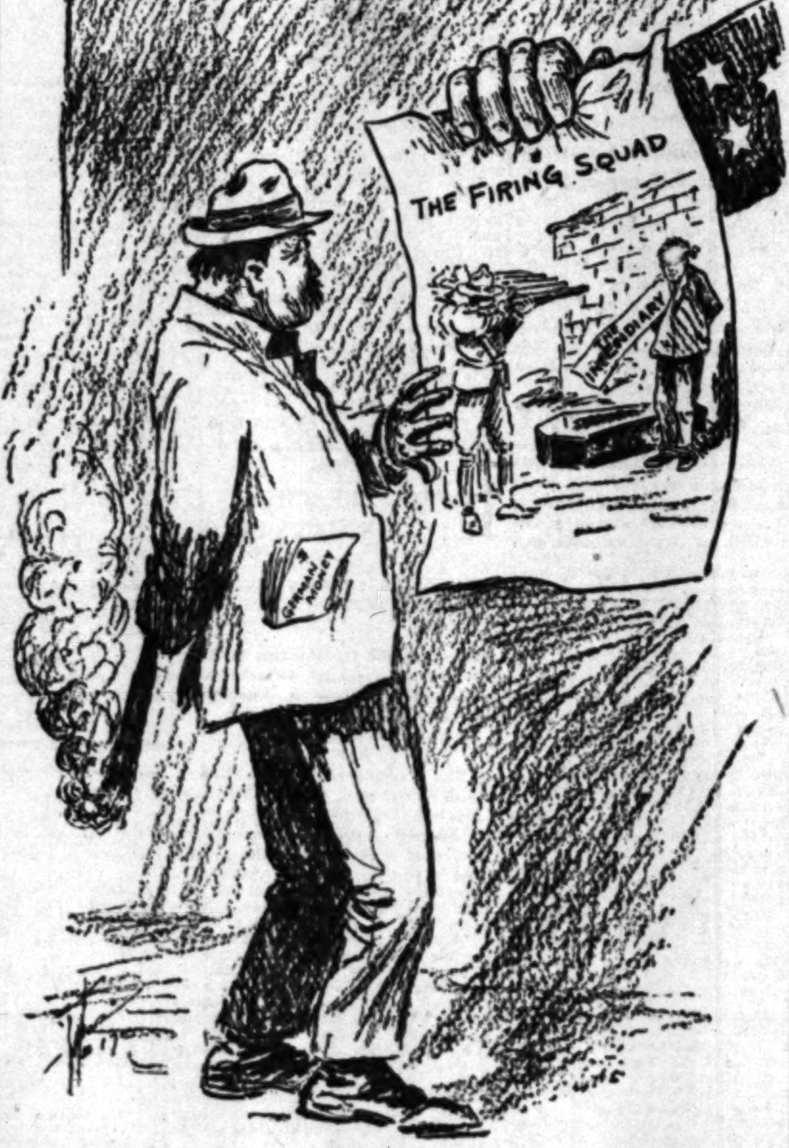
The spirit of this army is one of which the nation may well be proud. When the call came to register, 10,000,000 men walked to the registration booths and signed their names as ready to answer their country's call and to defend their stainless flag with their lives. When they were called for examination and certified for service they closed up their business affairs, said good-by to their friends and went to camp with a smile on their faces and a song on their lips.

Furthermore the nation has raised by means of Liberty Bonds, short-time treasury certificates and tax levies approximately $15,000,000,000. Every issue of the government has been oversubscribed within the time limit set by the treasury officials and these bonds and short-time notes have been distributed among approximately 16,000,000 citizens of the United States. This vast financing programme has been carried through without as much as a ripple of disturbance on the nation's financial sea and so far as can be judged the nation's financial resources have scarcely been scratched, to say nothing of being strained by this stupendous draft.

The accomplishment is one that stands without a parallel in the history of this or any other nation. There has been a marked absence of serious blunders and absolutely no graft of any description. The work has been carried out with the co-operation of the best brains that the country affords. Leaders in all the financial, industrial, commercial, agricultural and scientific lines have been called to the nation's service and they have given of their time, energy and splendid genius freely and without thought of personal gain. The railroads have been co-ordinated in such a way that they are responsive to the government's needs for the transportation of troops and supplies. The steamship companies have likewise been called upon and all available tonnage has been commandeered for the carrying of the men overseas. The great industrial plants have been organized on a war basis and every wheel that turns today in this country is turning at the behest of the nation.

The government is entitled to the highest commendation for these splendid achievements. Department heads have worked with patriotic zeal and have not been slow to take advantage of the splendid assistance rendered by leaders of industry, finance and commerce. This spirit has fostered and encouraged nation-wide co-operation and the results have been such as to amply justify the claim that a free people, thoroughly aroused, can embark on high emprise with a degree of efficiency that makes the ponderous machine of Europe's bloodthirsty autocrat look less formidable than it did a few months ago.

Give 'Em This!



KEEP STEADY. In the hands of the strong and unscrupulous, to raise bogeys and specters and evil spirits, rumor is a very effective wand. In nine cases out of ten Rumor is a liar—and not a very plausible one at that. She doesn't have to be. So long as the story is fantastic and spectacular, the more preposterous its make-up, the wider the circulation it seems to enjoy. Of course common sense discounts such credulity. At the same time those who have studied mob psychology appreciate the insidious power of those two little news-foxes, "They say" and "It is reported."

Naturally in periods of general excitement or uncertainty, especially during the alarms of war, the black bats of rumor emerge in denser swarms from their caves. For then the public imagination, on the qui vive for something fresh and startling, eager for the dramatic and the unexpected, more readily swallows the big-whale finale and the cock-and-bull fabrication. Nor is it likely that the ingenious Teutonic brain, that incubated poison germs for the Rumanians and inaugurated the use of deadly gases in warfare, will neglect the opportunity for harm afforded by the scattering of lying rumors and panicky suggestions.

In fact we know the United States has not been spared this feature of the horrors of war. Submarine myths, airship myths, treason myths, have been turned loose on the American people in countless numbers. Being sensational, these stories have attracted too many listeners and have been too generally discussed, even by those who ridiculed their pretensions. For the spreading of these false rumors the American press generally has not been responsible. Because a newspaper article can be traced to its source, whereas the very essence of a rumor is that no one can ever lay a finger on the spot from whence it originated.

And how prodigious, how beyond all reason have been many of the panicky stories dished up for American consumption! Super-submarines of incredible powers and dimensions have been sighted off Chesapeake Bay and have menaced New York Harbor. The modern periscope yarn has entirely supplanted the ancient sea-serpent fable. The man in the street has been so fed up on the prowess of the Teuton pirate that when a dying whale was struggling in the breakers at Santa Monica the other day, there were rational onlookers ready to believe it was a wrecked U-boat, one of the long heralded units of the Kaiser's Pacific fleet.

In New York and Washington clubs armchair warriors have already figured up the destructive powers of imaginary Zeppelins, being hurried to completion in the workshops of Bremen, destined to rain bombs on Boston and Baltimore and the metropolis itself. In the face of this menace rumor "wonders what our own government is going to do." Added to these was the dark hint of treason in high places. This, you may be sure, cried the panic-monger, must inevitably follow when there is so much hidden disloyalty beneath the patriotic surface. Why, the tale that a Secretary at Washington was about to be indicted for high treason was not too absurd to be passed from mouth to mouth!

More ridiculous still was the rumor that our army officers were terribly disheartened when the first American casualty lists were published. Though obviously of enemy origin some citizens were found ready to regard the yarn as not beyond the range of possibility. Then the gloomy forecast of want and starvation, even in the confines of bounteous California, is a bogey that still rears its foolish head. Gross exaggerations continue to be circulated about the country's war expenditures in spite of the specific denial of Secretary McAdoo.

England during the first year of the war suffered from the rumor fever in a yet more virulent form, perhaps, because her people were not so well fortified as our own to get rid of the plague. The story of the "terror," a fantastic diabolism supposed to have infected the dumb animals and to have been the cause of numerous unrecorded deaths, was quite generally believed in the country districts. Of course, said the wise ones, the details were suppressed by the official censor.

The Americans are not a people given to superstitious fears or groundless misgivings. But our nation, too is being tried by the sinister regime of manufactured misfortunes and pessimistic prophecies. Panics may be started and the best of causes be wrecked if the steady confidence of the people is undermined by the rumor-mongers.

Never has any other nation had so much reason to be thankful that, before the supreme test came, it had established itself firmly on the twin supports of courageous faith and deep-seated religion. The black bats of Rumor, whether they are bred in the caves of ignorance or the charnel house of malice, will shrink back blinded and confused before the electric arc of faith.

Those grand old Puritan warriors, the Ironsides of Oliver Cromwell, forebears of the pilgrim fathers who planted the tree of religious liberty on the soil of America, sometimes met reverses but never knew defeat. As fighting men they were not brilliant or spectacular or glittering like the romantic knights of the Middle Ages. But they were the STEADIEST soldiers that ever marched to victory. And their spirit lives in America today.

Against our nation is arrayed a host of foes, real and imaginary. Never forget that the imaginary perils are a worse menace than actual dangers. They must be fought down and vanquished with the bright sword of faith.

Keep steady, there, brave soldier facing the ingenious diabolisms of the Hun from land and sea and sky! Keep steady, there, loyal citizen, cheerfully enduring harsh and strange conditions at home. Keep steady, there, true mother and wife and sweetheart, patiently bearing your heavy share of the burden! Keep steady, there, ministers and teachers of religion, strengthening the hearts and souls of your people from 10,000 Christian pulpits. Americans, one and all, keep steady!

UNIONITE HOLD-UPS.

Shipbuilding operations have during the past three months been subject to constant hold-ups. As soon as one difference is adjusted another breaks out; and as in the coal-mining industry, concessions of advanced wages do not solve the difficulty. Nothing has yet been devised to keep the men steadily at work. They claim the right to loaf as well as to work, and they threaten to strike en masse if anybody is discharged merely because he refuses to work steadily six days a week.

Nobody will deny the right of any man or of any number of men in unison to quit work—in other words to strike—for any reason, or for no reason, in normal times. But this is not a normal time. Men employed in any of the great industries who strike today are literally aiding the enemy. They are traitors to the cause of the country. They are holding up supplies necessary, not only for the work of our men on the European front, but for their actual subsistence. Our soldiers cannot do their work unless they have supplies of food and ammunition; they cannot be sure of food and ammunition unless there are ships to carry them. When men in this country insist upon the right to balk and delay the building of ships or the manufacture or transportation of war supplies they strike a blow at the American army in France. They not only stand in the way of American victory, but they imperil the very lives of our soldiers.—[The Argonaut.

PACIFICISM AND ART.

BY WILLARD HUNTINGTON WRIGHT.

The widespread anaemia in America's intellectual life is nowhere better demonstrated than in our large body of pacifists. The disinclination to fight for an ideal is indicative—no matter how thickly swaddled in humanitarian platitudes—of a fundamental lack of vitality. When a man is unwilling to fight, and fight bitterly and even fanatically, for a belief or an aspiration, decadence has set in; his idealism is vitiated, or at least dominated by inertia. No progress—national or intellectual—has ever been made without the sacrifices of conflict; and those nations or individuals who at all times stand ready to accept the sacrifices of struggle are the ones who push forward the boundaries of human progress. All forward movement is wrought in suffering; all development grows out of friction.

The tremendous deadweight of custom, of satisfaction, of accepted formulas, of the old and the established, must be moved and overthrown before a forward step can be made; and this overthrow of the past requires energy and courage of a high order; it requires conflict and the spirit of war.

The apathy in certain quarters of America toward our present war, and the pacifism among certain bodies of individuals, have a direct bearing on many regrettable conditions in our intellectual and creative life. We lack a certain national pride in our own achievements in the arts; and there are numerous evidences that our intellectual patriotism is wanting in vigor and sincerity. We display on occasions a decided snobbishness in our respect for imported achievements.

Among the younger men with new ideas there is absent that fighting spirit which is necessary for the successful birth of those ideas. We have no magazines or periodicals devoted wholly to the free expression of youth, as has every other civilized nation. Our original authors and artists have extreme difficulty in getting an adequate hearing; they are discouraged in their efforts by lack of a medium. There is little aggressiveness in our intellectual life such as characterized the young heretics of modern France. There is a scarcity of books by the more vital of the young men; there being no demand for them, the publishers reject them. Inertia and indifference greet the expression of new and experimental works by American writers. New movements in the arts—those breeding grounds for ideas—are unknown to us.

There is too little faith in American creative effort; and many of our talented young men, lacking encouragement and inspiration, turn into imitators of their elders and adopt the accepted formulas. America is full of adolescent college professors, and one of our best-known weeklies is run by these senile youths. Among the other of our young men who have not succumbed to conventional dictates there is wanting cohesion; each man must struggle singly; for there is jealousy, and personalities are so strong that co-operation is made impossible. This is because there is no sympathy for the new, and each man is afraid of the enemies he might make by forming an intellectual alliance. The result is that in time he goes under. Alone, he has not the strength to wage his intellectual fight; he cannot shoulder the consequences; and he becomes a pacifist.

All these things are due to the absence of a fighting spirit and of that strength which can endure adversity. For years, among certain of our younger men, there has been a strong tendency toward intellectual nonresistance, and, now that we are at war, that nonresistance has become crystallized. In fact, many of the very men from whom we should expect the most in the matter of intellectual accomplishments have become pacifists. And it is this very attitude which has held back our esthetic development and keep us from attaining to a purely American art.

In American life there are greater possibilities than in any other nation today; and there are men here with sufficient talent and vision to make those possibilities a living reality. And all that is needed is the spirit of battle and the national consciousness which follows in its train. Therefore, it is discouraging that many of the younger men, who possess the potentialities for great things, should ally themselves with the pacifists.

There are more ways of fighting for America than the actual bearing of arms. An artist in his studio, a writer at his desk, or a composer at his instrument may struggle for a national ideal as valiantly, and often with as great a personal sacrifice, as a soldier in the trench. But the spirit of war—the willingness to suffer for and defend an ideal—must be in them all. And it is this spirit which counts—no matter what form of activity it takes—in the high achievement of any nation.

Gallant but Awkward.

A gallant but awkward young man, making his way through a crowded street car a few nights ago, his arms laden with parcels, accidentally jostled a woman. He stopped to beg her pardon.

As he bowed a parcel fell from his arms and dropped on the woman's foot. He stooped to pick up the package and the rim of his hat bumped her nose. He took off his hat and tried again.

This time his head hit the broad brim of the woman's hat, tilting it south-by-southeast. She stepped backward, lost her balance and fell into the lap of an elderly man.

The gallant but awkward young man reached out a hand to assist her, caught a flimsy sleeve and tore it.

"Better let her remain here, young man," remarked the elderly man kindly. "I'll take care of her until you get off the car."—[Philadelphia North American.

FORBES ON GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

The transportation crisis towards which the United States is headed must be met with a broader system of centralized control rather than with its alternative government ownership, says B. C. Forbes in an article, "Where Are Railroads Headed?" which appears in the October 27th issue of Forbes Magazine.

The remarkable results achieved by the Railroads' War Board, he says, indeed, are being used and will be used by powerful political interests as convincing proof that government ownership is the solution of the whole transportation problem. The article enumerates the vast accomplishments in shipping of troops and supplies from basic points to their destination with remarkable facility despite the abnormal conditions. Says Mr. Forbes:

The reply of the railroads is: "No. It shows what can be done without government ownership!"

To my mind, any attempt to bring about government ownership of railroads during the war would be extremely dangerous and ought not to be considered for a moment.

America's railroads are capitalized at approximately $20,000,000,000, and, in normal times, have a market value of about the same figure.

Now, are not heavy enough burdens being laid upon the nation's taxpayers without gratuitously adding $20,000,000,000 to them? We have not yet raised the $19,000,000,000 which Frank A. Vanderlip estimates must be provided for government purposes between now and next June. The raising of $2,000,000,000 every month is a colossal task, a staggering task, a task which will entail greater self-sacrifice than the general body of American citizens have so far shown readiness to impose upon themselves.

By merely allowing the railroads in the eastern territory, or elsewhere, to increase freight rates would not permanently solve the railroad problem. It would not justify a return to old-time haphazard conditions.

To my mind, the remedy, or rather remedies, which ought to be applied and applied promptly are as follows:

Let the Interstate Commerce Commission, without delay, grant an advance in rates over the eastern division of the country and then proceed to consider the adequacy of rates in other territories.

Let the government create the new position of Minister of Transportation, with very broad powers. Let the new Transportation Department either temporarily retain the present Railroad's War Board or form a somewhat similar body, not merely to perform the duties now being ably carried out by the War Board, but to deal with all classes and types of transportation throughout the country—steam railroad transportation, river and canal transportation, transportation by electric lines in urban districts, etc.

Let the Interstate Commerce Commission continue to pass upon questions of fact and upon most of the matters which now come before it; but have natural transportation policies prescribed, not by this body, but by Congress through its Transportation Department.

Let all railroads doing an interstate business be obliged to take out Federal charters and cease to be the football of forty-eight States.

An aroused public opinion must make itself heard and felt. The Interstate Commerce Commission should be left in no doubt that the public realizes the vital necessity and urgency of averting a total collapse in railway credit and in railway facilities. Let there be no delay in advancing rates.

The critical condition of the railroads in the United States has aroused much discussion on the possible results and the remedies for the unsatisfactory condition. Unless the government authorities act promptly, disaster, both financial and physical, is predicted by the highest officials of the American railways.

In a symposium of opinion, gathered by Forbes Magazine and published in the October 27th issue, the consensus seems to be against government loans to railroads and for some ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase freight rates so that the railroads may profit sufficiently to permit them to install much-needed improvements in equipment.

RIPPLING RHYMES

CHANGING TIMES.

When I was young, long, long ago, I labored on a Kansas farm; I drove the dun mules to and fro, and whaled them with my strong right arm. I left my couch at early morn, before the darkness passed away, and husked the yellow ears of corn throughout the sunny autumn day. I sold some corn, not once or twice, but many times, in those past years; twelve cents a bushel was the price —oh, think of that and shed some tears! It took about a ton of corn to get a haircut and a shave; the farmer's spirit was so torn he longed to fill an early grave. And now the farmer drives to town, with load of corn on creaking wain; the purchaser must pony down two bones a bushel for that grain! To one who's sold his loads of maize, his harvest, at twelve cents a throw, these seem the golden, happy days for farmers —but they still have woe. Today I talked with David Dale, who bought the farm of Hiram Horn, and he was loaded down with kale, for he had sold a load of corn. "The way they soak a man in town," he said, "just makes a fellow reel; our faces still are trampled down, by rank oppression's iron heel. Today I bought a pair of shoes from that old pirate, Godfrey Gough; the price has given me the blues—where does the husbandman get off?"

REDLANDS, Nov. 18.—Posses of deputy sheriffs searched all night Saturday night and yesterday for two men, who are believed to have shot at Dr. R. J. Roulson from ambush on the road between Hemet and San Jacinto and later attempted to blow the safe in the passenger station at Hemet.

The first report of the activities of the men was made when Dr. Roulson told the Hemet police that he had been fired on by men hidden along the road between Hemet and San Jacinto. Two shots were fired, but neither took effect.

Within an hour after the shooting occurred a loud explosion in the Santa Fe depot was heard and investigation showed that the combination of the safe had been knocked off, nitroglycerin applied and an attempt made to blow open the safe. The attempt failed and the thieves fled.

BEACH TRAFFIC BLOCKED BY CRASH.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 18.—Traffic on the Pacific Electric Railroad between Los Angeles and Long Beach, Long Beach and San Pedro, Seal Beach, Newport and Balboa, was held up this afternoon when the caboose on the end of a freight train left the train at Willowsville shortly after 1 o'clock and knocked down a power pole supporting high-tension as well as local trolley wires.

Willowsville is the point where the Pacific Electric branches off to Seal Beach and other south coast beaches. The direct line leads into Long Beach. The freight was switching off toward Seal Beach. The switchman on the front is said to have released the switch before the last trucks of the caboose had passed over it, with the result that the front end of the caboose started for Seal Beach and the rear end for Long Beach.

There were no other casualties.

GRAND REVIEW AT MARINE BARRACKS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MARINE BARRACKS (Balboa Park) Nov. 18.—Horace M. Rebok, superintendent of schools at Santa Monica, and J. C. Barthel, postmaster of Venice, were visitors here Friday, coming to participate in the review of the Twenty-first Infantry, the seamen and the marines, and also to see "some of Mr. Rebok's boys." Mr. Rebok was more than pleased to find that of five boys from the Santa Monica High School who joined the Marines, all of them have received appointments as non-commissioned officers. None of them, he said, were of the draft age, and all joined early in the war.

The Santa Monica boys are Corporal Jack Evans, Thirty-sixth Company; Sergt. Bernard Evans, Thirty-sixth Company; Corp. Robert Westbrook, One Hundred and Second Company; Corp. Merritt Van Sant, Thirty-sixth Company, and Corp. Tom Staley, One Hundredth Company. Merritt Van Sant was a star back field man at Santa Monica, also a crack baseball player and track man. Tom Staley, Bob Westbrook and the Evans boys were all prominent in athletics at Santa Monica.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Nov. 18.—In commendation of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Southern California Association of Companion's Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, and by courtesy of Gen. P. H. Barry, governor, a meeting will be held in Markham Hall, Soldiers' Home, on Thursday, November 22, at 2 o'clock p.m.

On that date, veterans of the Civil and other wars will be guests of the members of the Home. Dinner will be served for the association at the second setting of tables in the main dining hall.

Companions of the order, and those eligible, who have signified their intention to become members, are cordially invited to be present at the meeting.

It may not be generally known that the Loyal Legion consists exclusively of ex-officers of the Civil War. Customarily their annual is attended with a banquet, which, on this occasion, they forego for the pleasure of enjoying again a soldiers' dinner, reminiscent of days of long ago.

FORMER OFFICIAL OF AD CLUB WRITES PRESIDENT.

Deprecates Threat of Men to Cripple Transportation at so Critical a Period—Red Cross Slanders Refuted by City Defense Council.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Nov. 18.—"Draft the railroad men now threatening another strike, and therefore proving a serious hindrance to the government in this hour of crisis, put them in uniform, give them draft soldier's wages and send them back to work," is the suggestion made by R. D. Richards, former president of the Long Beach Ad Club, in a letter written to President Wilson today as a way out of the present strike difficulty.

"Thousands of men now in the selective army cantonments throughout the country, are, for the most part, working for the government for $30 a month. They are men who will go to the front to face the deadly German shell fire. The railroad men, left at home and already drawing a fat salary, are hollering for more."

REFUTES SLANDERS.

Commissioner of Public Safety James R. Williams, as chairman of the City Council of Defense, has offered a reward of $100, to be paid out of his own pocket, for proof of any one case where Red Cross goods sent out from Long Beach do not reach the soldiers and sailors and are, instead, sold in some second-hand store in some distant city. Such reports have been circulated in Long Beach, presumably through pro-German agents.

This city is on the eve of the most prosperous winter season in its history, according to Chamber of Commerce officials, who base their predictions on first hand knowledge accumulated through a personal canvass of the apartment and rooming-houses and real estate offices handling rentable residences.

MAD DOG CAUSES PANIC AT VENICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Nov. 18.—A mad dog scare in front of the Paloma apartments, No. 503 Ocean Front, created a panic in the throng of pleasure-seekers near that section of the beach today. The animal, a small beast of uncertain pedigree, at first drew the attention of bystanders by its peculiar actions, and then scattered the onlookers as he began to gyrate in circles and froth at the mouth. Officer Ralph Clifton shot the afflicted canine before it had attacked anyone.

SAN PEDRO, Nov. 18.—J. W. Nicholsen, bakery company No. 338, Camp Fremont, Menlo Park, is believed to have committed suicide here last night. A. I saw Ruth today and it is all over between us, so there is nothing left to live for. Signed Joe Nicholsen. No trace of the body has been found.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO, Nov. 18.—The $1000 quota in the Y.M.C.A. drive is already practically subscribed and J. E. Old Wet-and-dry Fight Again Revived at Redondo Beach.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Nov. 18.—A petition that is being circulated here, which has for its purpose the ousting of Judge John B. Holley from his office of City Recorder, bids fair to develop into the old wet and dry fight here, although in a different form. Judge Holley is one of the leading church members here, is an ordained minister, and one of the men that helped make Redondo Beach dry.

The petition requests the City Trustees to turn over the duties of the City Recorder's office to the street superintendent or some other city official and save the city the paying of a City Recorder's salary, on the ground that it is unnecessary to retain the office, since the city went dry.

COLTON STARTS WAR FUND CAMPAIGN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, Nov. 18.—The first gun in Colton's campaign to aid the Y.M.C.A. $35,000,000 war fund drive was fired at a hurriedly-called meeting of citizens last Friday night at the Red Cross headquarters, which overflowed with the audience present. The main speaker was Sergt. James S. Bryson of the Seventh Battalian, Canadian Infantry, who spent twenty-one months in the trenches in France and Belgium, having been with the first contingent of Canadian soldiers mobilized for oversea service. He gave a graphic account of what the "Y" canteen means to the soldier far from home and friends, and his talk fired all present with patriotic zeal to send Colton's apportionment of $800 "over the top."

PHOENIX-LIKE, OJAI RISES FROM ASHES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OJAI, Nov. 17.—Due to war conditions, the new Foothills Hotel, replacing the one burned in the forest fire, will cost $20,000 less than originally planned. Construction will begin in December on a building to cost approximately $60,000, to replace the $45,000 structure destroyed. Original plans called for an $80,000 building.

About fifteen handsome homes are being constructed here at this time, replacing those destroyed by fire.

CROWDS AT BEACH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Nov. 18.—A crowd that would compare favorably with a midsummer throng visited the Santa Monica Bay district today. Pacific Electric cars were crowded and every road to the beach was filled with automobiles of every description. No less than 20,000 visitors were in Santa Monica, Ocean Park and this city today, according to a conservative estimate.

CRISIS COMING FOR RAILROADS.

Shoulder Greatest Burden in Country's History.

Cross Swords with Germans in Efficiency Test.

Traffic Increases Make Car Shortage Acutely Felt.

The "Battle of the Marne" will be fought over again this winter by the railroads of America, says a communication sent out yesterday by the Southern Pacific.

Pitted against the unified skill and experience of the nation's carriers is an avalanche of traffic such as all history never saw before.

Despite the extraordinary achievements and efforts of the railroads' war board in cutting car shortage from 148,000 in April to about 30,000 on September 1, the increasing pressure of fall crops and government needs has forced the figure now to 70,000.

Moreover, there is every indication that as America proceeds with the war, the strain upon the railroads will grow greater. Traffic of the country is increasing at the rate of 15 per cent. a month. Crops are unusually heavy, factories all over the country are clamoring for fuel and demanding twice as many cars for their output as normal conditions would mean. The strike of coal miners in the East now throws upon the railroads the burden of hauling to the cities in one month all the coal which they have been given two months to haul.

The roads at the present time are getting out of each locomotive and car approximately 50 per cent. more use than they did two years ago, but there is an obvious limit to human possibilities. The carrier can get no reinforcements in the way of new equipment, for practically the entire output of American locomotive and car shops is needed by the government for use abroad.

The draft has increased the difficulties which many railroads are experiencing in securing an adequate supply of labor, particularly unskilled labor for maintenance of track and roadway.

The Southern Pacific is urging its employees all over the system to redouble their exertions and is seeking to enlist the sympathetic cooperation and moral support of shippers and commercial bodies along its lines.

Heavier car loading, quicker release, and more intelligent use of the box car equipment are the only weapons the railroads have available now to wage the great war, and victory can only be achieved if shippers load and unload promptly, load cars full, and assist loyally in every way to make one car suffice to do the work of two.

It has been said that this is now a "railroads' war." The railroads of France saved that country in the battle of the Marne. American railroads will preserve it. By the use of railroad systems it has been possible to transport whole armies from one front to another—a thing that has kept Germany from defeat more than once. The railroads are now making it possible to feed and supply the millions of men in the field to an extent hitherto undreamed of by military experts. Here in America the railroads were the first to organize on a military basis and it was through their agency that the cantonments were built, 1,000,000 men mobilized, kept supplied daily, and everything that went to the Allies moved to the Atlantic seaboard.

Now we are approaching the peak of the war-time freight movement. Cars and locomotives which have been undergoing severe service must be made to do still more; shippers must co-operate still more effectively; railroads and operating experts must be on the job every minute.

If the railroads can hold the first line of defense until the spring, then the country can breathe easier, for the most dramatic struggle in the history of transportation will have been won.

Delays.

I.W.W. HEARINGS ARE POSTPONED.

NEITHER GOVERNMENT NOR THE DEFENSE IS READY.

Doors of Courtroom at Fresno are Pasted with Stickers Showing So-called Sabotage Cat and and Words: "We Never Forget." Grand Jury to Report Tomorrow.

By reason of the unpreparedness of both the government and the I.W.W. defendants, the trial of the defendants in the pending case before the United States District Court at Fresno, it was stated here yesterday, is not likely to occur before the early part of the new year.

It was expected that the trial would have been set this week, but the Federal grand jury considering the evidence against the hobos will not report until tomorrow. It is the intention to not try the case until after the conclusion of the hearing in Chicago, where a score of members of the organization, headed by William D. Haywood, are booked for trial. As the Chicago prosecution will be the first in this country where the powers of the Federal court have been invoked to determine the guilt of these anarchists and trouble-breeders, it has been deemed best to await the outcome in that city.

That the spirit of opposition to the government and in favor of the pro-German propaganda typified in the activities of the I.W.W. is yet very much alive is indicated by the fact that, a few evenings ago, some friends of the defendants made an entry into the Postoffice Building at Fresno and pasted the doors of the courtroom with I.W.W. stickers bearing a picture of a cat—what is known as the sabotage cat—and the words: "We never forget." The perpetrators of the outrage are unknown.

Judge Bledsoe will return to Los Angeles and hold court today, and then return to Fresno tomorrow to hear the report of the grand jury. There is nothing before that body but the report on the I.W.W. case.

FAVOR PLAZA UNION STATION.

Central Passenger Terminal Deemed Urgent Need.

Rail Commission Ready for Important Hearing.

Grade Crossing Elimination will be Considered.

Meaning the eventual remaking of the traffic map of Los Angeles the State Railroad Commission will convene en banc tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the Supreme Court room in the Union League Building for the purpose of conducting the third session of its hearing on the grade-crossing and union-terminal problems. These were originally brought to the attention of the commission in complaints filed by the Central Development Association, the Civic Center Association, the Municipal League and the cities of Pasadena, South Pasadena, San Gabriel and Alhambra.

In his opening remarks at the first session of the commission held here last July, President Thelen stated that the problems of grade-crossing adjustment in the terminal facilities in Los Angeles presented one of the most important and exhaustive questions which have ever been submitted to the commission for its consideration.

In addition to the grade-crossing situation, which all parties admit requires prompt and radical adjustment to properly safeguard the lives of the people and facilitate both passenger and freight traffic in this city and vicinity, there has been a very definite and widespread demand for an adequate union terminal system, to include both a union passenger depot commensurate with the dignity and size of Los Angeles and a series of freight terminals which will improve industrial deliveries. Among the proponents of these constructive plans are the Central Development Association and the Civic Center Association. These two organizations advocate the removal of all crossings at grade in this city and further believe that this can best be accomplished, with an attending betterment of the local railroad situation, by the construction of a union station in the vicinity of the historic Plaza. The proposed site is south of Macy street and directly east of the Plaza, extending across Alameda street on that portion of land which is now owned in the major part by the Southern Pacific.

It was this location, in general, which Bion J. Arnold designated as the logical location for a union station at the time that he made his official traffic survey in 1911, at the request of the Los Angeles city officials. The Central Development Association, with the indorsements of several hundred representative citizens and wholesale and retail concerns located in all parts of the city, believes that the time has now come, if at all, when Los Angeles, with the aid of the Railroad Commission, can have the long-needed union station. This organization and numerous individuals, long identified with the civic and industrial betterment of the city, maintain that the proposed union terminal station can be logically and profitably located only in the region of the Plaza, which site is not only in the immediate vicinity of the gateway of Los Angeles, through which nearly all the trains enter and leave the city, but is a center from which the broadest traffic arteries in the city radiate in every direction, both local and suburban.

HELP SOLDIERS WHO GO TO OUR DEFENSE.

DR. FRANCIS PLEADS FOR AID FOR Y.M.C.A.

Says Comfort for Men in Service is Practical Statesmanship and will Prevent Them from Succumbing to the Brutalizing Effects of the Great War

Dr. James A. Francis, who is on leave of absence from his pastorate of the First Baptist Church, in order to give his time to the Young Men's Christian Association war work, was in the city yesterday for a brief visit before starting on a tour of the ten big army camps in Texas and Oklahoma, and spoke in the First Baptist Church on "The Present Situation." In the course of his address, he said:

"American people do not realize how serious things are at this hour. Germany has beaten Russia to a standstill; overrun Rumania, overrun Serbia, and inflicted a terrible temporary reverse on Italy. Germany and her allies now have under their control 178,000,000 of people. She is seeking to lay her hand on the throat of the Russian empire. If she can do this, Russian wheat, beef and oil will flow into Germany in rivers and greatly prolong the war. The only places where Germany is not winning out are on the sea, where the submarine campaign is proving a failure, and on the west front where she faces Britain, France and America.

"The present effort to raise the great Young Men's Christian Association fund for the comfort and help of our men is one of the most practical pieces of statesmanship ever placed to Mr. Wilson's credit. Two days more remain for finishing up the great campaign in Los Angeles. The awakening is slow. We feel sure that if the facts could be gotten before the great public the response would be overwhelming.

"It is up to us, very distinctly up to us, to help the men who have gone in our defense and in the defense of the dearest and highest things that the world knows, to remain men and not to become brutes under the brutalizing effect of war. I ask every one of you, whether you give out of your abundance or out of your poverty, to go the limit for this great appeal.

"The spirit of the American Army is fine. Let us give them to know that the nation is behind them in practical helpfulness and that they are followed by the love of millions."

WANT PACIFIC COAST LUMBER.

South American Countries Offer Good Market.

Chile and Peru are the Two Big Consumers.

Cordiality Shown Toward Our Exporters.

That Americans can ship lumber to South America without quarrels and disputes with their Latin customers seems proven by the fact that Douglas fir from our Pacific Coast is sold in large quantities to Chile and Peru, with practically none of the friction over grades and measurements that characterizes our lumber trade with Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay.

"This satisfactory condition of affairs," says Special Agent Roger E. Simmons, in a report written for the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, "has resulted in a feeling of confidence in American products and cordiality toward American exporters that is of the greatest possible value to American trade as a whole."

The new report describes the markets for lumber in Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela, Trinidad and Curacao. Chile and Peru are the two big markets, although the lumber imported by those two countries is almost exclusively Douglas fir. Ecuador is unique in using practically no imported lumber, but would be a promising field if the tariff were low enough to permit American lumber to enter at a lower price.

Practically all the lumber imported by Colombia and Venezuela comes from the United States, but the amounts are small—2,000,000 board feet annually for Colombia and 3,500,000 feet for Venezuela. The limited use of wood in both countries (the total consumption is only 13,000,000 feet in Colombia and 2,000,000 feet in Venezuela,) in comparison with cement and other materials, points to the need of a lumber-advertising campaign, through which these markets might be greatly extended, says the report.

Among the topics treated in the report under the various countries are the domestic resources and industry; the lumber imports and their distribution; the species, dimensions, costs, prices, uses, etc., of imported lumber; business conditions, and suggestions for expanding American trade. Supplementary data are given concerning special wood products—furniture, matches, cars and ships, ties, poles, boxes and shooks, wood pulp, barrels, flooring and ceiling, and sash, doors and blinds. There are also lists of lumber importers and dealers, lumber yards, deposits, mills, wood-pulp consumers, principal mining industries, nitrate oficinas and railroads of Chile, and sawmills, importers and dealers of Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela and Trinidad.

This report completes the record of the investigations conducted by the bureau into the lumber trade of South America, a similar report for Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil having been published some months ago.—[Commercial and Financial World.

RIVER FARMS' EARNINGS BIG.

Statement of Company Shows Part Returns from Productions Surprising.

Page, Sterling & Co., local stock and bond firm, has just compiled a statement of the earnings of the River Farms Company of California for the year 1917. Although the figures compiled by the bond firm are only partial, they show that the company earned net, after deducting operating expenses, $868,601.67. These returns are from the crops of barley, wheat and rice only. In addition to the above crops, the company has 800 acres in beans and over 500 acres in sugar beets, as well as a substantial alfalfa yield. The returns from these crops, says Page, Sterling & Co., should bring the net earnings of the River Farms Company of California for the year 1917 up to approximately $1,000,000.

Of the $2,000,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent. serial bonds that were brought out by Page, Sterling & Co. a year ago, the River Farms Company of California has purchased in the open market $220,000, which it is carrying in its treasury. The trustee has taken up and canceled $192,500, and the remainder of the River Farms Company bonds are in the hands of the public.

"Liberty Boot" Comes Next.

America has had the Liberty Loan, and now is to have the "Liberty boot" for women.

Shoe dealers say that "army patterns" are becoming popular among civilians. It is being proved that a comfortable, hygienic shoe can be made neat appearing, so that no man need be ashamed of the size of his feet.

As fashions for men's and women's shoes develop along military lines, it will be surprising if American feet generally are not the better for this education. So manufacturers are thinking of agreeing on a style for a Liberty boot for women.

Prices will still remain high, as the leather supply is not increasing and the demand by the war will steadily increase.

At the same time the shoe manufacturers are being handicapped by the going of men from the shoe machines to the national service, and the problem of filling their places has not been solved.

The retail trade also is affected by the thousands of men going to war. Whereas formerly these men bought their own shoes, now Uncle Sam is providing them, and retailers' stocks are thereby undiminished by so many pairs.—[Kansas City Times.

Surprising.

PER CAPITA DEBT OF THE NATION IS SMALL.

Money Owed is Little More Than One Per Cent. of Our Wealth.

INTEREST-BEARING public debt of the United States at the present time is $4,202,646,015. This includes the receipts from the first Liberty Loan to date and the outstanding treasury certificates of indebtedness, issued in anticipation of the second Liberty Loan, says the Wall Street Journal.

Notwithstanding the huge debt augmentation that has taken place since our entrance into the war, the per capita distribution of the public debt, at $40.21, is considerably below what it was for a long period subsequent to the Civil War. As late as 1874, the per capita debt exceeded the present figure. On June 30, 1866, the interest-bearing debt stood at $2,332,331,208, with the per capita at $65.82. At that time the population of the United States was about one-third what it is now.

Last year the per capita debt was $9.55. It had been in close proximity to $10 for a number of years previous, while the interest-bearing debt had remained well under a billion dollars since 1901.

In the matter of national wealth, the figures also bear interesting comparison with former times. It is estimated that the national wealth of the country today is $250,000,000,000. Therefore, every man, woman and child has a potential wealth of $2392. Before the Civil War the per capita wealth of the country was only a little over $500.

In 1870, after the country had been through the throes of the Civil War, the per capita debt was about 7 per cent. of the per capita wealth of the country. Today, in spite of the huge indebtedness already incurred, the per capita debt is only 1.6 per cent. of the per capita national wealth.

Following table gives the interest-bearing debt with per capita at the present time, compared with the figures for June 30 for a series of years back to 1800, together with a periodical estimate of the national wealth of the country:

Big Business.

STATE LUMBER INDUSTRY EMPLOYS ARMY OF MEN.

ONLY surprisingly big figures express the lumber-producing possibilities of the Pacific Coast. In California, alone, 2,448,100 acres of standing timber—pine, fir and redwood, outside national forest reserves—are in the control of ten private owners, and this ownership represents 42 per cent. of all standing timber in that State.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company is the largest single owner, its estimated holdings being about 110,000,000 board feet. This company's forest possessions are enormous, measured in miles as on both sides of its lines from Portland, Or., to Sacramento, it measures 680 miles of dense timber land. In California alone the company holds 920,000 acres. Two other private companies control, respectively, 670,000 and 250,000 acres of pine and fir. In addition to this it is interesting to note that the Diamond Match Company has a patch of timber land amounting to 160,000 acres, which will produce an incomprehensible number of igniters.

Lumber stands first in the manufacturing industries of California and more than 250,000 wage earners are engaged in it. In other words, this is nearly 20 per cent. of employees in that State's manufactures. The annual output of manufactured lumber in California, exclusive of customs sawmills, is broadly put at $48,000,000.—[Commercial and Financial World.

SEEK OIL NEAR CITY LIMITS.

Wildcat Wells are Sunk in Three Sections.

May Develop New Field at Gates of Los Angeles.

Merchant Finances Company to Promote Operations.

In East Los Angeles and on Boyle Heights, within or just outside the city limits of Los Angeles, three wildcat oil wells are under construction. Of these one has quite strong indications of the presence of oil in probably commercial quantities at greater depths and has been taken over by a practical and experienced operator who will complete it and establish beyond all doubt whether or not it is capable of becoming a producing well. The second of these wildcat wells is not yet deep enough to show any indications favorable or unfavorable. The third is being sunk by one of the big companies and at 1700 feet has had a slight coloring of oil, nothing more as yet. All three are entirely outside of the limits of the old city fields.

ON MT. WASHINGTON.

The first of these three wells is located on the slope of Mt. Washington about half or three-quarters of a mile from the Mt. Washington Hotel and about half-way up the slope. The existence of oil here has been suspected for a number of years. Nearly a year ago, I. H. Preston, a lawyer with offices in the Citizens' National Bank Building, who owns some sixty acres on the slope about half a mile from any residences, started a test well on his land. The venture was a personal one. The well was originally started with too light equipment and had to be redrilled with a heavier standard rig. A depth of about 1900 feet was attained and there work stopped, the reason being presumably the unwillingness or inability of the owner to risk more of his personal funds in going deeper, and he has been seeking others with the money to go on.

The well has just been bought and the land leased for oil by E. E. Henderson, now of the Colgan-Henderson Furniture Company on South Main street, a practical oil operator of many years experience. He will finish it either by forming a corporation or by interesting a number of moneyed associates with him in a private syndicate. The well is already equipped with a standard rig and with a large part of the material needed, a tremendous advantage in these times when work is being held up all over the world because of shortage of oil well supplies. Mr. Henderson estimates however, that 1000 feet more of casing will be required to finish the hole to a point which will determine definitely whether or not oil exists in commercial quantities and whether or not a new field is going to be opened right at the door of the city, a field the extent of which no man can yet guess, but which may extend far within and without the city limits.

While the Mt. Washington well is not yet, in any sense, a commercial proposition, nor is it at all certain that it will ever be such, it has had the most promising signs all the way from the 1200-foot level down—gas, shale and a little oil. The showing is such as to have made Mr. Henderson risk his money in the venture. No opposition has been made by the city or any property owners to the work of development and none is anticipated, for with oil as much desired and as valuable as it is now, the neighboring land will be worth much more for oil than for any other purpose.

The new owner of the well, Mr. Henderson, was for many years superintendent of the Western Union Oil Company at Santa Maria. Later he formed the Palmer Oil Company and drilled the first well in Cat Canyon, an extension of the Santa Maria field, developed a gusher and opened a new district. Besides, he has drilled a number of other wells in Ventura and Kern counties.

NEAR LINCOLN PARK.

The second of the new city wells is being drilled as a personal venture by President Jordan of the Jordan Oil Company, operating a refinery in Vernon. It is located east and south of Lincoln Park, in an entirely new field where no drilling has ever been done before. It is not yet deep enough to determine its probable value.

The third wildcat well is being drilled right at the edge of the city at the end of Brooklyn avenue on Boyle Heights. It is owned by the Amalgamated Oil Company, subsidiary of the Associated, and it is located on land owned by the Huntington Land & Water Company. The well has been drilled to 1700 feet, has had just a slight color of oil, has been cemented to shut off water, and is now drilling again. East of here many wells are being developed in the new Montebello or Repetto Hills field, the wildcat operations started or planned, extending almost to the old Whittier field.

While drilling right on the edge of the city the Amalgamated has also started another wildcat well which is the easternmost of those actually started to date in the extension of the Montebello district and the first well east of the Rio Hondo and between that stream and the San Gabriel River. The well is on a tract of some eighty acres belonging to a Mr. Durfee and leased by the company from him. The well, just started and not yet deep enough to warrant any opinion as to its prospects, is within a mile and a half of the Red Star well on Mrs. Anita Baldwin's land, and about the same distance east of the San Gabriel petroleum well. Though unfinished, the Red Star well has already flowed between the casing at the rate of 500 barrels daily before sanding up. At last reports it was being cleaned out.

MORTALITY IN BUSINESS LOW.

Commercial Failures are Below the Average of Former Years.

With the smallest number of failures for the period in over a decade, and the lightest indebtedness, with one exception, since 1909, the October insolvency record maintains the highly favorable features which have characterized the returns throughout this year. Commercial defaults last month numbered 1082 and involved $12,812,012 of liabilities, as against 963 reverses in the shorter month of September for $11,903,051. But while the October mortality somewhat exceeds that of September, the number is well below the 1240 failures of October, last year, and is, in fact, less than in any year back of 1906. Moreover, the aggregate debts, though larger than the $10,775,654 of October, 1916, are materially under those of any October in eight years, the 1909 total being $12,529,862. Considering the uncertainties arising from the war, and the many drawbacks in business, the insolvency statistics continue to make a remarkably good exhibit.—[Dun's Review.

"Get a check," said the soda dispenser.
"Where?" said he.
"At the cashier's desk in the rear," said the clerk.
"Give me a check," said he.
"What for?" said she.
"For malted milk," said he.
"Go to the other window," said she.
"Is this the right window?" said he.
"For what?" said she.
"For checks," said he.
"Checks for what?" said she.
"Checks for malted milk," said he.
"Yes," said she.
"Then give me one," said he.
"Get the proper change," said she.
"Where?" said he.
"At the main cashier," said she.
"Give me change for a dollar bill," said he.
"All right," said she.
"Give me a check for a malted milk," said he.
"All right," said she.
"Give me a malted milk," said he.
And he got it.—[New York Herald.

MINERAL OIL EXPORTS REACH NEW HIGH MARK.

TOTAL mineral oils exported from the United States during the fiscal year 1917 made a new high record, amounting to 2,749,433,434 gallons, valued at $230,953,149, according to the Department of Commerce, says the Wall Street Journal. This was an increase of approximately 300,000,000 gallons and $65,000,000 over 1916, and about 470,000,000 gallons, valued at $79,000,000, over 1914, the last normal year before the war. Gas and fuel oil and illuminating oil showed largest percentage of the total exported, whereas crude oil showed small percentage.

Exports of illuminating oil amounted to 835,114,403 gallons, valued at $54,662,094, in 1917, a decrease of over 300,000,000 gallons, valued at $19,838,068, from the amount exported in 1914.

Exports of gas and fuel oil have more than doubled in quantity and value in the last three years, increasing from 475,143,205 gallons, valued at $13,747,863, in 1914, to 1,040,671,713 gallons, valued at $32,473,872, in 1917.

Exports of gasoline and lubricating oils also showed substantial increase. In 1917, 226,185,730 gallons of gasoline, valued at $46,936,510, were exported, as compared with 151,611,537 gallons, valued at $21,699,475, in 1914. This shows an increase of 74,574,193 gallons, valued at $25,237,035.

RUSH DRILLING IN KERN FIELD.

Operations are Increased in Many Districts.

Southern Pacific Begins New Development Work.

End of Year may See Thousand New Wells Sunk.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, Nov. 17.—Drilling of new wells during the remaining six weeks of the present year at the existing ratio would place 1000 to California's credit for 1917, together with compliments of the season and best wishes for a prosperous new year. There were, at the close of the fiscal year on October 1, more than 7000 producing wells in the different fields, and that this number will show a decided increase in 1918 is assured by the activities of leading companies and expansion of certain districts, some of them widely scattered.

New development work planned by the Southern Pacific through its fuel oil department and demonstrated by the sinking of about a dozen wells in the Midway field within the past ten days, presages still greater exertions in the next few weeks in the way of obtaining petroleum so much needed for use on the company's lines. Besides the locations selected for the wells now drilling, in section 16-32-24 and section 17-32-24, sites for other holes in this district have been chosen, the spudding in of these to be commenced at the earliest time possible. The Southern Pacific has similar plans outlined for the Coalinga field, but for the present work is principally along the line of redrilling or deepening in this area. The company has desired for months to explore various tracts on the west side of Kern county outside of the Midway field, but has been handicapped by lack of material and by other causes. With the expected return of better conditions in the not distant future, operations on a much wider scale than those now being conducted are expected.

OTHERS OPERATING.

Among other large operating concerns whose latest work has attracted much attention are the Associated Oil Company, the Shell Company and the General Petroleum Corporation, the Associated and the Shell each sinking a new well in the Coalinga field, and the General Petroleum and the Associated one each in the Lost Hills district. The Shell Company's new hole in the Coalinga field is in section 27-19-15; the Associated well is in section 12-19-15, and two recent additions to the district were made by the Zier Oil Company, the Pantheon Oil Company and the Seneca Oil Company.

The Standard and the Southern Pacific are dividing honors in the matter of deepening or re-drilling wells in the Coalinga field, the Southern Pacific working with three and the Standard with two. The Shell Company is deepening three, and the Nevada Petroleum Company, the Pantheon Oil Company and the Coalinga-Homestead Oil Company are re-drilling one well each.

The Reward Oil Company, whose principal offices are in San Francisco and which has met with notable success in recent development in the Belridge field and on its lease at Shale, has started a new well in section 1-29-21, in the Belridge area. Some of the Reward's best wells are in the North Belridge district, and indications recently encountered on the company's property on the North McKittrick front will result in the sinking of some wells there.

In the Arroyo Grande country, the D. J. Oil Company has spudded in its sixth well in section 31-31-13. The D. J. Oil Company has its headquarters in Visalia, B. B. Dudley is president, and its capital stock is $40,000. The Tiber Pacific Petroleum Company has completed a well in the same section.

The Montana-Wyoming Oil Company, operating in section 18-32-23, in the Midway field, is re-drilling its second well, and in section 15-31-22 the Midway Peerless Oil Company is deepening well No. 12. Manley and McGinn have begun work on a new well in section 14-31-22 in the Midway, and the Miocene Oil Company and the Trojan Oil Company have each spudded in a well in section 32-12-23 in the Sunset field.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Coalinga Eight Oil Company has been called for November 23, at Bakersfield, to consider and act upon a proposition to dissolve that corporation. This company, organized seven years ago, with a capital stock of $600,000, has several wells in Fresno county.

The Pacific Crude Oil Company, which operates a number of wells in the North McKittrick front and in the Midway field, has levied an assessment of 7 cents per share upon the capital stock of the corporation. The capital stock is $750,000 and the principal office is in San Francisco.

The Continental Oil Company has contracted to drill and operate wells in the south half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 29-28-28 for the Independent Oil Producers' Agency and deliver oil to the agency, the amount to be not less than 500 barrels per month and the contract to cover a period of one year.

H. S. Williams of the H. S. Williams Oil Company, and Herbert G. Pall, of the Kern River Oil Company, were among the visitors to the McKittrick field this week, making an inspection trip to their respective properties.

J. F. Goodwin, former president of the Pinal Dome Oil Company and for many years a director of the Bank of Santa Maria, was in McKittrick this week on business. Mr. Goodwin has recently purchased an extensive ranch in the Carissa Plains country, and in its management will he associated with his son, Donald Goodwin.

OIL EXPERTS VISIT PORTERVILLE REGION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WOODLAKE (Cal.) Nov. 17.—Following success in the drilling of a wildcat oil well in the White River basin south of Porterville, oil experts have been spending some time in a study of the Mud Gap district north of here. Men who have been over the district within the past week are quoted as having declared their confidence that oil will be found in paying quantities there.

Attention has also been given to the Stone Corral country, which was made famous during the days of the Sontag-Evans band of bandits.

One of the visitors, who is said to be in the employ of the Standard interests, said it was probable work would be started on some test wells in the two districts in the near future.

MANHATTAN FOURTH LEVEL SHOWS ORE.

SAMPLES SHOW RICH IN FREE GOLD, IS REPORT.

White Caps is Making Bullion Shipments from New Mill—Two Valuable Bars Show Great Returns—Extensions are Working Toward New Metal Indications.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MANHATTAN (Nev.) Nov. 16.—The great east ore body of the Manhattan Consolidated has been exposed on the fourth level. The east drift had been extended for a distance of 200 feet from the shaft where the blue crystaline limestone was encountered in the face. This limestone constitutes the footwall of the ore, so at a point 175 feet from the shaft, a south crosscut was started to tap the ore body. After ten feet had been made in the crosscut, the ore was encountered and, since then, twenty feet has been made without disclosing any signs of the hanging wall. Where exposed, the ore body is a mass of picture rock, being shot full of coarse gold with stringers of wire gold intermixed. It is impossible to estimate the average value with so much free gold showing. Six sacks of the high grade has been taken out, which runs nearly $1 a pound. An interesting feature is that the ore is much more oxidised on the bottom level than above. Some manganese ore shows, but the bulk of the ore is completely oxidized. Probably plans for a mill will be taken up shortly as, with the amount of known ore in the mine, a mill can be kept busy for years on ore from the upper levels alone.

White Caps is making regular bullion shipments from the new mill. The concentrates are shipped to the Tonopah Extension mill, where they are reduced to bullion. The first two bars ran at the rate of $16 per ounce and were valued at approximately $25,000. The mill continues to give an extraction of between 90 and 93 per cent. The average daily tonnage treated is 140 tons, but the management expects to do better than this by installing a partial slime treatment. A Butters filter included in the improvements is now under construction at the Tonopah Extension shops and will be finished in two weeks. The week's work in the Caps has exposed the east ore body from the fifth level for a total of 167 feet with ore showing as strong as ever in the face.

The three compartment vertical shaft of the Zanzibar and White Caps Extension companies is now at 370 feet, where the shaft has passed into a stratum of limestone, known locally as Morning Glory limestone, which serves as an indication that the ore-bearing limestone is in close proximity. It is intended to sink to about 390 feet where the first station will be cut and laterals extended to explore the formation.

Army and navy officers are asking that the harbor be made dry. The only way to do it is to vote yes on No. 1 on the ballot.—[Advertisement.

JEROME MINES SPEED OUTFIT.

Work Handicapped by Lack of Quarters for Men.

Setback from Labor Trouble Practically Overcome.

Insufficient Number of Cars Deters Production.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

JEROME (Ariz.) Nov. 16.—Further development of the mines here appears to be somewhat restricted by inability to secure housing for the miners who come. In spite of the setback from the late labor troubles, the camp now is knowing prosperity as never experienced before.

The United Verde Extension is being handicapped in production by inability to secure ore cars. Last month the record was only 200 carloads, compared with 240 in September and 300 in August. The ore average remains high, running up close to 25 per cent. Progress is being made on the 12,000-foot tunnel at the rate of about 750 feet a month, though this record will be doubled when work is started from the bottom of the Texas shaft. This shaft now is down about 400 feet. When it has reached 600 feet, a drift will be run north to the tunnel line and headings will be started both ways.

There seems to be expectation that the hoisting contract of the Jerome Verde with the United Verde Extension will not be renewed when it expires on December 23. Just at present shipments are being made of ore averaging about 7 per cent., a grade that needs economical handling in order to realize profit.

Neill E. Bailey of the Green Monster Mining Company denies the report of dissension in the company's organization, stating that Layman and Clark, who have called a stockholders' meeting, are not directors, only being heavy stockholders. Ore running up to 10 per cent. has been found in the Gorge tunnel of the Green Monster in schist. A station has been cut in the company's Dorothy May shaft at depth of 500 feet.

On the 700 level of the Verde Combination a strong flow of water was struck on passing through a quartz ledge. Further driving had to be suspended and the holes plugged till better pumping facilities could be installed. Work has been resumed, new pumps proving adequate to handle the flow.

Found a Quick Cure for Croup.

When a child has croup no time should be lost, and the remedy that will give the quickest relief and is pleasant and safe to take is the most desirable. Mrs. S. Cartwright, Collingsville, Ill., says, "When my child was small he was subject to croup. I found that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gave the quickest relief and that he never objected to taking it."—[Advertisement.

The data which they may be able to gather will be included in a bulletin, now in course of preparation, on the "war minerals" of California.

These gentlemen extend the courtesies of the State Mining Bureau, in so far as it may be able to be of any assistance to the local mining public, with the assurance that all personal or written inquiries will receive careful and friendly consideration.

It is interesting to note that, according to data gathered by the State Mining Bureau, the mineral resources of Los Angeles, Orange and neighboring counties were drawn on during the calendar year 1916 to the extent of $22,809,461, or 18 per cent. of the total production of the State, which equaled $127,901,610 for that period.

Many persons will be surprised to learn that Orange county stands third among the fifty-eight counties of the State as regards the value of its mineral output, being exceeded only by Kern and Shasta counties. San Bernardino stands fifth, and Los Angeles eighth. Orange county, of course, owes her position to the highly productive oil fields which are located in that section.

BIG INCREASE.

San Bernardino's total of more than $6,500,000 for 1916 represents an increase of approximately $4,000,000 over the value of her 1915 mineral output. This county is one of the most highly mineralized regions in the State, a few of the more important mineral resources being asbestos, barytes, cement, clay, copper, gems, gold, gypsum, iron, lead, limestone, manganese, marble, mineral paint, mineral water, nitre, potash, salt, glass-sand, silver, soapstone, soda, miscellaneous stone, strontium, talc, tungsten, tuff, vanadium and zinc.

During the year mentioned, Los Angeles county produced about 3,000,000 barrels of petroleum; crushed rock and miscellaneous stone, to the value of $971,153; and brick which sold for a total of $760,912.

Such an important position in the mining industry has Southern California assumed, that the State Mineralogist deemed it advisable to establish a branch office of the California State Mining Bureau in Los Angeles in 1914. This office is located at No. 520 Union League building, and is used as headquarters for field assistants of the bureau who are at all times engaged in making investigations relative to the progress in mining and metallurgical methods which is taking place throughout this section. In addition, one of the members of the State Mineralogist's technical staff is on duty at the above-mentioned office.

BUYS MINE GROUP.

Property Near Bishop is Taken over by Goldfield Man—One Shipment Made.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISHOP, Nov. 18.—Mike Yalovics of Goldfield has bought the Friday group of mines situated on the narrow gauge, two and one-half miles from Queen station. The former owners were H. W. Clark and James Isachsen, who say the price was $40,000. Only thirty-eight feet of work had been done on the ground although the owners made one shipment that averaged better than $140 per ton. Most of the values are in silver, with about 1 per cent. to lead to each fifty ounces of silver and a small quantity of gold. Mr. Clark, one of the sellers, says that the prospect gave specimens that ran as high as $600 and that the face of a short tunnel shows a two and one-half-foot ledge that will average about $50 in silver.

The leadership of the Cerro Gordo as a zinc producer is likely to be challenged by a discovery made by Kirk & Lovell on the edge of Darwin Marsh, about nine miles from Darwin and about two miles from Floyd's Springs, where the miners obtain their water. The work so far done has been all on the surface, but even at that F. L. Young has entered into a contract for hauling 10,000 tons of ore, which he is moving out at the rate of forty-five tons a day by means of a caterpillar, which moves the ore to the summit, whence it is hauled to the railroad at Keeler by means of motor trucks. It is claimed that the ledge is 500 feet wide and no one essays to guess how deep the formation extends.

LABOR PROBLEM AT BISBEE IMPROVES.

MANY SEEK EMPLOYMENT IN MINES IN ARIZONA.

New Machinery and Drills Have been Installed on Copper Workings—Prospective Sale is Reported of World's Fair Property. Tramway Erected at Tombstone.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Nov. 16.—The last few weeks have witnessed the arrival of a very large number of applicants for employment, most of them skilled men from northern mining localities, here to find more clement weather than in such communities as Butte. No discrimination is being made between union and non-union men. It is said that the I.W.W. element, that came here with the expectation of testifying before the President's Labor Commission, all have departed, finding no work and no consideration.

Surface machinery to handle a hoist and three power drills and to drive the main shaft to the depth of 1000 feet now is being placed upon the property of the Arizona-Bisbee Copper Mining Company, a couple of miles west of Don Luis.

The Old Total Wreck mine, nine miles south of Pantano station, is to be worked again for silver-lead ores. It is owned by the Edward Vail interests of Los Angeles, which also controls the Empire Cattle Company. The mine was a famous producer about thirty years ago. The new development will be by means of a modern shaft that now has been sunk about 100 feet deep.

Once more report has come of the prospective sale of the famous World's Fair mine at Harshaw, owned by Frank Powers and wife. This mine is one of the most notable in Arizona, carrying very high-grade silver-lead ore. It has been worked in a desultory fashion for many years by the owner, who has taken out only enough ore to meet his personal needs, and the incidental expense of development. A number of times sales have been arranged, but it is told that Powers, in each case, has refused to pass title, preferring to keep the mine himself.

A tramway is being installed at Tombstone, from the Oregon shaft to the mill of the Bunker Hill Mines Company. While the company now is mainly producing manganese, it still is opening up, by lease, a number of old ore bodies of the famous Bonanza mines, of which it controls over 100 mining claims.

RICH MAGMA STRIKE.

Arizona Ore Shows High Percentage of Copper, Silver and Gold. Is Getting Better.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Nov. 16.—On the rich Magma property at a depth of 1600 feet, has been cut thirty feet of ore, averaging 13 per cent. copper, four ounces of silver and $2 in gold, this in a crosscut. The first eight feet was in only 2½ per cent. ore, but the grade enriched rapidly as the workings were extended.

Water has been lowered to 220 feet on the famous old Silver King mine, in the camp of that name. On the 250 level several drifts are to be retimbered and exploration is to be made in a zone wherein ore was left when the property was abandoned many years ago, when silver was worth very little. Other smaller bodies are known to exist on the 400 and 700 levels. The workings are 850 feet in depth, and are understood to be bottomed in copper ore. This last consideration is considered most important, as over the hill at Superior the Magma was developed from a similar formation at the bottom of the workings of the old Silver Queen mine. It is proposed to equip the Silver King with a modern milling and oil flotation plant. The King company has repaired a road from Silver King to connect with the Pheonix-Superior road at the abandoned mill town of Pinal, about five miles distant.

Anthraconite.

MAMMOTH, Oct. 26.—Q.: I am inclosing a sample of ore of some kind that comes from a locality about seven miles from Bishop. I notice when out riding that every time I go by the butte, especially in damp weather, there is a strange smell in the air, and I also found out that if you strike the rock it gives the same kind of a smell. Please tell me what it is and oblige. C.

A.: Anthraconite is a limestone which "emits" a fetid odor when struck with a hammer or by one sample being rubbed against another one, and probably from hydrogen sulphide present.

MINE TOWN TO BE PERMANENT.

Brick Factory will Furnish Material for Building.

Verde, Unlike Other Centers, to Live Long Time.

Activities Promise Prosperity for Arizona Town.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Nov. 18.—The magic of mining has been well exemplified in the Jerome district during the last two years. When Senator Clark decided to build a new smelter for his United Verde mine output, he determined at the same time upon the founding of a model mining town, and practically with the wave of the magic wand of money, Clarkdale sprang into existence. Today Clarkdale is a thriving city, but unlike camps of mushroom growth, it is built to stay, and as long as the big smelter is supplied with ore frm the mine which has made Senator Clark many times a millionaire, Clarkdale will grow and prosper.

Many predicted the death of Jerome when the other town was projected, but it, too, has prospered beyond the wildest dreams of its most ardent boosters, its only handicap now being lack of space in which to expand. With the copper boom following the graduation, over night, of the United Verde Extension from the prospect class into one of the richest red-metal mines in the world, Jerome found itself, despite a frenzied building programme, unable to accommodate the strangers within its gates. The hotel and housing problem became acute, but, despite all private enterprise could or would do, the "standing-room-only" sign was out day and night.

TO BE SOLID CITY.

Before the completion of the United Verde Extension's smelter in the early part of next year, the town of Verde, near the plant in the valley, will be under construction. Work will not begin on the company's second proposed Walnut Park town, on the hogsback, at the east edge of Jerome before summer, and possibly not then. Verde is not to be a moving-picture city, built for a day and a night, but will be constructed of brick. A brick plant with a capacity of 20,000 brick a day is practically completed, and the actual burning of brick will soon be under way. An architect is now engaged drawing plans for the town, and one of the features of community life will be the recreational facilities, including tennis courts and a baseball diamond.

And in the meantime the town of Cottonwood, which had been slumbering placidly for many years, awoke with a start when work commenced on the United Verde Extension smelter, rubbed its eyes and began to take notice. People began to flock in and before some of the village inhabitants were aware of the fact, they were part and parcel of a thriving little city. This in part is what mining has done for the Jerome section in but a brief period, not to mention the great power plant of the Arizona Power Company, and the town of Tapco in its wake, made necessary by the demand for current from the numerous properties of the prospect class which are feverishly pushing work in the hope of bringing in the fourth great producer in the district.

LOOKING BETTER.

In the Jerome Verde the latest mine brought in in the district, the northeast drift on the 1050 level from the Columbia shaft is looking better than ever. It is being run on a quartz-porphyry ledge that carries considerable iron, the iron content seemingly growing heavier all the time. The company has not been able to carry out its plan of shipping a carload a day to the Humboldt smelter, because of the congestion around the Edith shaft of the United Verde Extension, through which the ore is raised, but already sixteen carloads have been dispatched.

Underground development at the Verde Combination during the month of October totaled 557 feet, according to the report of Supt. Dave Morgan. At Calumet and Jerome the air hoist is now in place at the collar of the winze being sunk from the 600 level, about 100 feet south of the shaft. The winze is now down about fifty feet. There is no noticeable change in the formation, which is schist shot in through with chalcopyrite and white iron. The southwest crosscut is in a formation, mainly quartz, which carries an iron sulphide and some copper.

LARGE SHIPMENTS.

Globe Concern Financed by Los Angeles and San Diego Capital, Makes Good Showing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Nov. 18.—The new Dominion Copper Company, with only one shift working, is shipping several hundred tons of high-grade sulphide a month. Sinking operations have been resumed, with a betterment of labor conditions, and the shaft will be driven from the present depth of 800 feet to probably 1200. The company has spent about $100,000 during the past year and is understood to be well financed. At its head is R. E. Vandruff of San Diego, with him being associated E. K. Davis of Los Angeles.

The Gibson mine at Bellevue, for years a producer of high-grade sulphide, again is being financed with the expectation of building a 300-ton mill in which to concentrate its lower-grade ores. The mine has a record of about $2,000,000 in production. Last month's product was valued at $35,000.

The Greater Miami Copper Company is said to have passed to a new eastern company, which is expected to make thorough development by drilling.

The Globe Dominion is driving to 950 foot depth, there to crosscut north and south. The property, of forty-nine claims, is situated less than two miles from Globe, comprising a large dyke believed promising of large values at depth.

Copper Ore.

LANG, Oct. 28.—Q.: Please test for copper and silver and tell of what commercial value. Sample is from near Lang, Cal. M.

A.: The sample is of iron-copper sulphides with iron-manganese oxides present. Copper approximately 9 per cent. Not sampled for silver.

In the Earth.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

You are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make samples of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention whatever.

Silicates and Carbonates.

ATOLIA, Nov. 1.—Q.: I send you by this mail two samples for classification. No. 1, from Mono county; test for bismuth. No. 2 from Rand district; test for strontium. No. 1 gives a strong canary-yellow color when treated with hydrochloric acid, same as high-grade tungsten ores, but fails on the blue. The acid "jells;" why? A.

A.: With the exception of certain tests for uranium and radioactive principles, there has been nothing new on qualitative analyses, since the translation of Prof. Victor von Richter's work on Inorganic Chemistry, and published in 1885.

All authors agree that the proper test for carbonates is hydrochloric acid diluted with one-half water, and that lime carbonate will give a brisk effervescence, in small chips, without powdering the specimen. The cause of such effervescence is escaping carbonic acid gas.

The writer prefers concentrated hydrochloric acid for testing carbonates. In this acid chips of lime carbonate effervesces brisky, and soon go into solution. A chip of strontianite in strong hydrochloric acid effervesces slightly, but add water, three or four times the volumn of hydrochloric acid, and brisk effervescence takes place, with the escaping carbon dioxide forming bubbles that rise and break in the test tube.

Ores of tungsten in strong acid do not effervesce so rapidly as lime carbonate, and a yellow powder separates in the solution that is soluble in aqueous ammonia, and many arsenical compounds; those of bismuth, some phosphated, ores of zinc-lead varieties, etc., yield bright yellow colorations.

Many silicates are decomposed and gelantinize in acids, and without first using the blowpipe on the samples, while other silicates must be boiled in acids before they will gelantinize. All of this "jell" reaction is but a hint to the analyst.

Strontianite, before the blowpipe gives a bright red color, and the assay shows minute sparks of spurting growths that bubble somewhat, but there are varieties of the mineral that do not "swell up and form cauliflower-like masses." The flame of lime carbonate is of such a luminous and brilliant pale red that it literally "hurts the eyes."

Witherite, the valuable commercial carbonate of barium, is easily fusible before the blowpipe; it decrepitates; yields a translucent globule, which is opaque on cooling, and turns moistened turmeric paper red. Witherite also effervesces in hydrochloric acid.

It is well to note that both witherite and strontianite when in solution of hydrochloric acid, diluted with water, give a voluminous, white precipitate by adding a few drops of chemically pure sulphuric acid to the dilute solution, and a nitric acid solution of bismuth, diluted with water, precipitates while bismuth sub-nitrate.

Your samples are: No. 1, silicate of lime, soda and aluminum; dolomite present. Bismuth absent. No. 2 is probably altered dolomite; strontium absent.

Nickel Present.

SHARP (Nev.) Nov. 2.—Q.: Under separate cover am sending you two samples. I would like to know if they contain any other metal than silver and lead. I notice a residue in the pan, but am unable to classify it. Kindly let me know through your columns what the content is. A.

A.: No. 1 is quartz seamed with a complex arsenide, and nickel is more or less present. No. 2 is high-grade silver lead ore, with arsenides present; nickel a trace.

Under separate cover we are mailing you part of the first sample sent to this department of The Times in November, 1916. The sample mailed to you is a complex sulphide carrying gersdorffite, with 35 per cent. nickel in the mineral named. Prospect closely for ore like the specimen mailed you, and it should be in the vicinity where you found No. 1 above classified.

Platinum Absent.

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Nov. 2.—Q.: Please tell me if there is platinum in sample. M.

A.: The sample is magnetite in part; ilmenite present. Scattered throughout the mass a microscopical lot of sulphides are present; chiefly pyrite, and zinc sulphide (spalerite,) also in microscopic form. Copper trace.

Platinum not Present.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 2.—Q.: I am sending you a mineralized rock from San Gabriel Mountain. Please test for platinum and other minerals. I.

A.: The rock is in part aluminous-magnesium silicate; some "slickensides." Microscopical pyrite is in the mass with crystals of ilmenite (titaniferous iron ore.) Hematite present. Lead a trace.

"Steel Galena."

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 2.—Q.: We are sending you under separate cover a sample of ore which we believe carries lead and zinc and we wish you would be good enough to advise us the real contents of this ore, with reference to the two metals above named. A.

A.: Lead, antimony and zinc are present, with more or less arsenic. The galenite is of that variety which should carry silver; copper absent. There is lead oxides, and lead carbonate sparingly contained in the samples. Lime traces; iron oxides present. This ore should not be heavily penalized at the smelters.

Platinum Absent.

MONROVIA, Oct. 8.—Q.: I am mailing to you in a small, square box with my card inclosed two pieces of mineral which I would like to have analyzed. They were broken from a larger piece of float picked up near the San Gabriel River's mouth. Do they not contain silver? Do you think there is any indication of gold or platinum? Would you advise having an assay made for the latter? Thanking you in advance for the desired information. M.

A.: The two samples are practically alike, and chiefly calcite. There is a low per cent. of microscopical pyrite, and traces of microscopic molybdenite present, with some graphitic iron. Manganese, and iron oxides and low per cent. iron carbonate (sederite.) Free gold absent; not tested for silver or zinc. There is but slight hope of obtaining platinum from such samples even in 100-pound lots.

Mountain Rats.

GRACE (Idaho) Oct. 10.—Q.: Will you please assay this sample of oil and inform me what the mineral contains? G.

A.: Some twenty-seven years ago the writer was seeking native potassium nitrate (saltpeter,) and in his travels examined the small deposits at a point probably ten miles south of Salt Lake City, in Beck's Canyon. At the locality stated one of the mining boys asked the question, "What's this stuff?" and pointed to a brownish-yellow coating and deposit filling seams and fissures at the summit of the canyon. Well, truthfully, it was our first squint at the matter, and, "for safety first," the tenderfoot looked wise and said, "nix." You can imagine one in his laboratory analyzing such stuff for —!! However, the truth was learned, and your sample (like that above referred to) is simply a "strike," and the "discovery" is but organic matter from a point, where, at one time o' day, was the nesting place of mountain rats. Notwithstanding the facts stated, there is quite a good reason why this substance should be used in the gentle art of the perfumery trade; the mineral (?) is not so obnoxious (in odor) as civet (from civet cats,) or that of ambergris, a diseased product thrown off by the whale.

Altered Rock.

MENTONE, Oct. 10.—Q.: I am mailing you under separate cover a small box containing a rock, which I would like to have tested for "potash." A subscriber for The Times. H.

A.: The sample is altered feldspathic and aluminous rock. There is some kaolin present, but the potassium content is barely soluble in water. In fact, the water-soluble potash is less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Five Samples.

ENCINITAS, Oct. 8.—Q.: Under separate cover please find five ore samples, properly numbered. They are from a locality not very far from railroad, and of feldspar rock accompanying other formations. Will you please describe the samples, and if any of them are of commercial value I would like to know it. Thanking you for past favors. L.

A.: Sample No. 1 is high-grade orthoclase (potash feldspar,) but the potash in such rock is not water soluble. No. 2 is pegmatite, (graphic granite,) consisting of mechanically-mixed quartz with orthoclase. No. 3 is a low-grade feldspar, with iron oxide (hematite.) No. 4 is of silicate of aluminum (kaolin,) with orthoclase and iron oxides, and No. 5 is quartz (ferruginous.) Samples Nos. 1 and 2 are of use in the clay industry, but the low price of feldspars, together with transportation charges, is a very serious drawback to the feldspar trade, especially so in California and Arizona.

"Slickensides."

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—Q.: Would you kindly publish in your "In the Earth" the name and composition of the accompanying ore, and whether or not it has any commercial value. H.

A.: The sample is of doubtful commercial value. There is some iron-manganese present, with magnesium silicate, and graphite traces. Pockets of gold ore frequently occur near such rock, especially in Northern California and in Southern Oregon.

Opposition.

CONFISCATION SEEN IN WALSH OIL LEASE BILL.

OPPOSITION to the Walsh Mineral Land Leasing Bill has developed in the Rocky Mountain oil States, the Western Oil World, which is published at Denver, by B. A. Hayden, who was formerly conspicuous in California oil, has come out squarely against the principle of governmental leasing, in which stand it is believed to reflect the sentiment of a large section of public opinion in that region.

Mr. Hayden, who was himself a sufferer from the withdrawal orders in Kern county, declares in his journal that the California oil operators have an entirely just cause in their demand for relief from the withdrawal orders, but maintains that their cause should not be tied up with the leasing bill, which, he asserts, will do great injustice to miners and oil operators all over the country.

Particularly, the Western Oil World says, great harm will be done in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Montana, where the oil industry is in its infancy and needs all the encouragement it can get from broad and liberal laws.

There has never been a spirit of friendliness in the Rocky Mountain section towards the principle of governmental leasing, the journal declares. Indeed there has never been any enthusiasm for the principle among oil operators anywhere. In California the Walsh bill has been accepted in good faith by practically all concerned, not because they all believe in the principle, for many of them do not, but because they are convinced that as the policy has been fixed at Washington, there is no substantial hope of getting anything else. There is also a feeling that almost anything will be an improvement on the present conditions, and that relief for the operators within the withdrawn area—which now includes practically the known and unpatented oil territory in the State—can come in no other way. For years relief was sought in vain in other directions, the Oil World declares, and at last oil men of California became convinced that they must get together and back the leasing bill if California was to get any relief.

PRESIDENT ACTS.

Large areas of oil land and prospective oil land have been withdrawn by President Wilson in Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, Utah and North Dakota. These withdrawals cover both well-drilling oil lands and shale-oil deposits. While the oil men of these States want these lands restored to public use and development, the Oil World states, the demand for such action is not nearly as urgent as it is in California, for the Rocky Mountain withdrawals have not involved such a wholesale "confiscation" of property as they have in the Sunset State. In California the first withdrawal order came as the Midway was about to open up and boom and at a time when the legality of such orders was still undetermined and lawyers entertained grave doubts as to their enforceability. As a result chances were taken by operators upon the advice of their attorneys and millions were spent in improvements that were later confiscated. In the Rocky Mountain region a great deal of the land affected was withdrawn after the legality of such action had been fully determined by the courts and after the Pickett law had been enacted expressly authorizing the course followed. Also, much of the Rocky Mountain land withdrawn was withdrawn before money had been spent upon its development. Furthermore, the Oil World sets forth, the Rocky Mountain region is not facing the serious shortage in oil supplies that California now is. Neither is the Rocky Mountain region dependent upon oil for fuel.

ANOTHER PICTURE.

With an enormous industry building upon patented lands and on lands not withdrawn from entry, and a production to supply the available market, the oil interests of the Rocky Mountains believe they can afford to wait in the hope that public sentiment will eventually change and the leasing policy be abandoned. Such a course, however, means heavy losses in California, it is asserted.

Also, there is a strong fear in the minds of Rocky Mountain and other operators as to the effect of the leasing bill upon the claims of those who have done a limited amount of work upon unwithdrawn lands without as yet developing oil. Right or wrong, they fear endless litigation, if nothing worse, if the bill is enacted. Also, there are areas of prospective and semi-prospective land in the Rocky Mountain region outside of the withdrawn territory the title to which will be placed in jeopardy.

MEETING SUCCESS.

"OUR LITTLE WIFE" CONTINUES; ANNA HELD TONIGHT.

Mason.

With a large company of excellent New York principals and a chorus that outshines any other coming this season for good looks, costumes and ability, Anna Held, the well-known French comedienne comes to the Mason tonight in her Broadway musical success, "Follow Me." This show comes with an enviable reputation for advance men of rival attractions that have played here this year declare it to be the best of its kind on the road today. Never before has Anna Held presented a musical comedy so well, and as the show is her own, she personally feels the responsibility for its success. This opening marks the advent of the first big musical comedy of established note, and the Mason is enjoying a heavy advance sale as the result.

Morosco.

When Avery Hopwood wrote such plays as "Seven Days," "Sadie Love," "Fair and Warmer," the public opinion of his efforts was that the author delighted in skating on thin ice. Bordering on the risque, but never getting offensive his lines sparkled with delicious bon-mots and savory tit-bits from the dictionary. Thin ice was still strong enough in these former efforts, but in "Our Little Wife," which entered its third tremendous week at the Morosco yesterday to two crowded houses, the crackling, sparkling wit of the play broke through the crust and a deluge of riotous situations was the result.

Bertha Mann, Richard Dix, Harland Tucker, Douglas MacLean, Elmer Ballard, Robert Lawler, Betty Brice, and many others form the target of machine gun comedy, and these favorites are scoring tremendous individual successes.

"Romance," from the pen of Edward Sheldon, is now in preparation at the Morosco, and Director Fred J. Butler is giving this elaborate production, which is still running in London at this time in its third successive year, his most careful attention.

Majestic.

"Birth," the Eugenic Film Company's production visualizing life's greatest mystery began it's third big week at the Majestic yesterday. It will be positively the last week. The management will continue to reserve the entire lower floor for women. Because of the intimacy of some of the scenes, where the actual birth is shown, and men will be admitted only to balconies.

"Birth," is the first moving picture that shows in detail on the screen the actual advent of a baby into the world. It is a beautifully told story of motherhood

FRIVOLS.

Once Again.

HELLO, ANNA HELD!

CHIC FRENCH STAR COMES TO THE MASON TONIGHT.

By Grace Kingsley.

As charming and vivacious as ever, Anna Held is here to be in a week's engagement in her latest musical comedy success, "Follow Me," at the Mason Opera House, tonight. More than Anna Held, the French comedienne with the naughty eyes, there came Anna Held, producer and sole owner of one of the most pretentious musical comedy attractions sent out of New York this season. And still more—there came Anna Held, scenery and costume designer, for, let it be known, from the ideas alone of the fair Anna, every one of the three scenes of her production was designed and every costume and gown created. In fact, New York producers with big names are quite willing to acknowledge that the French star has, in "Follow Me," one of the most pleasing productions to look at that New York has staged during the two years last past.

Is Anna of the afflicted eyes unhappy because her own latest venture has succeeded better than that of her former husband, Flo Ziegfeld? Well, of course, comparisons aren't polite, and that wouldn't do at all to ask the lady. Still, if you ask her, throwing all delicacy aside, just how long Ziegfeld's latest play starring Billie Burke lasted on Broadway, it is at once apparent that she knows; she knows very definitely, too—it was just four weeks. While "Follow Me," which last season was owned two-thirds by the French star, and is now owned entirely by her, was one of the big attractions on Broadway last winter, running four months, and has been a big success on the road.

Yet, in spite of her success Miss Held is not traveling in such luxury as appertained to her former visit. She does not have a private car and a half-dozen servants this time. And the reason is not because the Anna Held purse will not permit, but because she is Hooverizing in every way. For Miss Held has not recovered from the shocks she received during her work of mercy on the battlefields of France and she thinks constantly of the miseries which her beloved poilus have to suffer.

"I cannot think of allowing myself such luxuries as private cars and many servants when those brave men of France, America and England are daily going through the horrors of trench life and going without so many little things that would make their burdens lighter, but which they cannot have. It would not be fair, so I send away from me my representatives who insist that I have a special and tell them it is wicked for them to think so much of my comfort."

And just to show her Los Angeles audiences how she feels about her war-torn France, she makes an original poem on the subject a feature of her performance.

ANNA :: HELD'S :: FASHIONS :: IN :: "FOLLOW :: ME."

Vivacious French Comedienne and her Alluring Models.

At the Mason tonight.

International musical comedy favorite will present her own New York success to Los Angeles theatergoers—with her in this picture is the powder puff girl and the jewelry maid.

Hello, Chet.

Chet Withey has arrived in the city, and will direct a picture under the supervision of D. W. Griffith. George Siegemann is assisting Griffith to finish up his war picture.

Fervently glad to be back on the western Broadway, Withey announces himself to be. The former Fine Arts director has been directing pictures for Goldwyn, and relates that taking pictures in New York isn't any easy matter by any means. At least they cramp the style of a western director, he says. Not only are studio conditions rather crowded, but taking pictures on the New York streets is next to impossible.

"It all resolves itself into tipping the cops with one hand, and keeping your limousine-inclosed camera away from the crowd with the other. The wealthy people are not so nice about permitting their property to be used as are the western millionaires."

However, Withey hands it to the Gould family, who hereafter need never worry about being in his bad graces.

"We were taking a picture on Fifth avenue, opposite the Gould residence, when a fat butler, like those you see in the film plays, came out and pompously ordered us away. But out came the mistress of the house, called the butler off, took an immense interest, and got chummy with the camera man, permitting us to do as much work there as we liked. I'll never speak ill of the Gould family as long as I live."

Riotously funny is this latest funfest—with its incidents more of the brain and less of the cocyx, its comedy less of the pie and more of the piamater. Surely the Sennett shop hasn't turned out anything funnier than that billiard scene, with the man under the table dragging the balls about by means of a magnet! Louise Fazenda is one of the few really funny women on the screen, and her work has improved marvelously in the last few months.

A business vampire, a vampire of the "V's," as it were, a commercial Circe, a siren of the cash register, as it were, is Texas Guinan, in "The Fuel of Life," which is the excellent Triangle attraction accompanying the Sennett film. Not all the money made from mines is taken out of the ground; the screen is finding the subject of mines a very resourceful one, and "The Fuel of Life" is a mighty intriguing tale. Belle Bennett is extremely effective as the lady who decides to trim Wall street and does.

Alhambra.

A new film star of unusual effulgence and purest ray serene is Sonia Markova, billed by Fox as a Russian actress, who made her debut at the Alhambra yesterday, in "The Painted Madonna," which is advertised as the work of the well-known playwright, George Scarborough.

According to moving pictures, a girl has only to make up her mind to lure men to their doom and to get a lot of money while she is about it, to have the thing an accomplished fact. Why doesn't somebody write a story about the girl who starts out with this laudable purpose, and fails? But Sonia is successful. A much more original angle of the story shows the lady of the streets, finally obsessed of her own portrait as the Madonna, giving her life over to the care of little, homeless children.

Sonia Markova, whether she is Russian or not, speaks very good English, as one can read her lips at all times. However, this is neither here nor there. The fact remains she is vivid, with a flexibility of dramatic impulse and expression, and with a personal fascination and beauty which are sure to make her successful.

The war pictures, showing the reconstruction work in France, are thrillingly entertaining.

Majestic.

"Birth" seems in for a run at the Majestic, the third week commencing yesterday. Women are intensely interested in these vital facts of life as portrayed in the film, and while a few may come out of morbid curiosity to view that scene wherein a life is brought into the world, most of them go out of a real desire to learn how to care for the youngsters that are theirs or that they hope for.

Miller's.

William Farnum still remains at Miller's, in "When a Man Sees Red." This is one of the most fascinating and vitally interesting stories in which Farnum has ever appeared, and the popular actor is bound to go up a notch or two in public favor through his work in this photoplay.

The scenic settings alone are worth the price of admission, while the all-star company which supports him do faithful and effective work in their various roles.

Superba.

Putting a nick in Nick Carter is what Franklyn Farnum does at the Superba this week. In fact, "The Winged Mystery" has Nick Carter pushed right back into the old 1900 model class and parked in the junk shop.

Even as there is a double measure of thrills, so there is a double measure of Franklyn in the photoplay, a double footage of Franklyn smiles, a double amperage of Franklyn fist fights; for Farnum plays a double role—that of an American born in Germany, who espouses the Allies' cause, and of his brother, who is a Prussian officer.

"The Winged Mystey" starts out to be a dignified tale of international intrigue—but fails to "jell" as such. Instead, it becomes a kidnaping bee, with all the guests of a house party held for hostage in a certain "house of mystery," whither they have been lured. (Query: How were a dozen husky grown folks kept prisoner in a house which had an open window with curtains fluttering shown all through the picture?) The story is developed with great ingenuity, including a mysterious use of carrier pigeons, and there are numerous little humorous and human touches. As, who would not sympathize with the ardent poker player at the house party, who, having a wonderful hand, is interrupted at the moment of his triumph by news of the kidnaping, and the departure of the other players, and who sadly remarks: "A full house—and nobody home!"

Maggie Teyte,
Who will sing "Mimi" in La Boheme at Clune's Auditorium tonight.

Symphony.

Another corking mystery play at the Symphony, yclept "Outwitted," with Emily Stevens in the leading role!

It's a slow week that doesn't show three or four of these mystery plays on Broadway, our best little curly-haired heroes having ceased their eye-rollings and turned themselves into detectives, amateur or otherwise, and our best little vampires having taken up their professional tiger skins from the floor and made them into sets of neck furs in which to sleuth-foot around after the villain who has stolen the mine.

A highly fanciful situation is the basis of the story. If you, as a good looking woman crook had entered a house to rob it and found an eccentric old gentleman, who nabbed you, but, who instead of turning you over to the police, proposed to try a psychological experiment on you to see whether a year's proper surroundings and treatment would extract the naughtiness from you, what would you do? That problem—and some others—were met by Emily Stevens. The story is as full of surprises—with the biggest one saved until the last!—as a poker game.

In addition, there is an appealing little comedy with Mary McAlister starred, and a Sidney Drew laugh-getter.

Sennett.

A hunger-cure as the background for the comic antics of Louise Fazenda, Slim Summerville, Ben Turpin, the talented Teddy dog—not to mention a string of restless sausages, is the scene of most of the high voltage comedy contained in "Are Waitresses Safe?" Mack Sennett's latest contribution to the gaiety of nations, which is on view at the Sennett this week. Louise Fazenda is introduced as "a working girl who had nothing else to do!" This culinary comedy eventuates in a servants' party, with the lovers at last borne away together in a bathtub, which has loosed its moorings.

HONOR ARIZONAN.

Many floral tributes from friends here and in Arizona were received by relatives of William Francis Nichols, whose funeral was held at the Rosedale Chapel Saturday. Mr. Nichols, who died at the Sierra Madre Club last week, was a prominent figure in Arizona politics for a number of years. He had been Territorial Secretary, and filled the term of Gov. Brodie when that official joined the Rough Riders in the Spanish-American War in 1898.

Fellowship Meeting.

With addresses by the Rev H. D. French, the Rev. William Davies and Rev. J. H. Cooper, a Fellowship meeting will be held in the Pico Heights Congregational Church at Twelfth and El Molino streets tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

"Lucia."

NINA MORGANA.

FINE IN THE TRILLS OF DONIZETTI'S MASTER WORK.

By Jeanne Redman.

The La Scala Opera Company closed its first week in Los Angeles on Saturday evening with a satisfactory performance of "Lucia," with Nina Morgana in the title role and Pilade Sinagra as Sir Edgar. The audience, what there was of it (for it was a small house,) was enthusiastic over the performance and applauded riotously, especially the sextette, which was sung twice and which became for me a septette—for the enthusiastic Italian gentleman who sat at my left sang throughout the opera, from the first moment when Lucia sings her duet with her lover, before his departure to France, until he kills himself among the graves of his ancestors and the sober tale comes to its soberer ending.

Morgana's voice is of the type of soprano which Donizetti's master piece requires. Her trills, runs and appoggiature were flexible and clearly accomplished, and the farewell duet between Lucia and Edgar (which no doubt the admirers of Donizetti find to be the very essence of commingled love and sorrow) was done with a certain impetuosity and vigor.

It is difficult to project the mind into the early nineteenth century, but far more difficult to project the emotions; and it is impossible, to feel deeply Scott's tragic tale to the old-fashioned Italian tunes and simple harmonies of the composer. Somehow it is not convincing. It is melancholy music, in fact, there is scarcely a joyous phrase in it, and prolonged misery, without one gleam of relief anywhere, becomes rather monotonous. Personally, I was rather glad when they were all well dead and done for and their troubles were over. The singers, however, survived nicely and kept up their enthusiasm all the way through.

"LA BOHEME" TONIGHT.

The La Scala Grand Opera Company have chosen the opera which has been their greatest success, "La Boheme," to inaugurate their second and farewell week tonight at the Auditorium. The cast will be the same as that of last week, Maggie Teyte as Mimi, Mario Valle as Marcel, Italo Picchi as Colline, Karl Formes as Schaunard, and the additional names of G. Gaudenzi in the role of Rodolfo the poet, and Nina Morgana as Musetta. Gaudenzi and Teyte have appeared in this opera many times, the last time in this city being during the Boston National's performances, when the price of admission was twice that which is asked by the La Scala, with the same singers.

Miss Teyte made her debut at the Opera Comique, Paris, in the role of Mimi, and made such a success that she in a large measure supplanted Mary Garden in the affections of the French public.

The repertoire chosen for the farewell week of the La Scala company offers four operas not yet given here by this company, "Carmen," Tuesday and Friday evenings; "Faust," Wednesday evening and Saturday matinee; "The Barber of Seville" Thursday evening, and "Il Trovatore" Saturday evening. The company has more than fulfilled the advance heraldings, as the performances have been of superior grade.

GENERAL REVIEWS.

Clune's Broadway.

Ann Pennington is showing us how niftily the one-two-three-kick-kick-kick treks into the curriculum of the boarding-school miss in "The Antics of Ann."

Unlike the "perils," "exploits" and "hazards" and other silverscreen serials of alliterative titles, "The Antics of Ann" are tumbled into the course of one speedy, breathless five-reeler, instead of being doled out chapter by chapter.

Of course, there are not actually any "episodes," such as "Ann Wakes Up in the Morning," "Ann Throws Prunes at Breakfast," "Ann Dances for Charity," and so on, but Ann nevertheless does all those things and plays more or less than a million mischievous pranks besides. Harry Ham, the handsome hero, radiates a Christie comedy brightness, while W. T. Carleton, the "irate father," who has patered to the ingenious fluffiness of Billie Burke and so many other sweet young things, does the same for Ann.

Anyway, Ann is active if not angelic.

Palace.

"Doug" Fairbanks is getting a reputation, much as G. B. Shaw has, for hiding a "message" beneath his fun.

If there is any message in "The Man from Painted Post,' it is: "Ride like the devil; shoot to kill; and—smile."

"Fancy Jim" Sherwood, the cattle rustler detective, is not called on for any especially hazardous stunts—unless putting to rout a dozen desperate cow thieves unarmed, except for a frying pan, is hazardous. One thing about Doug, you never catch him in the mushy close-ups most "heroes" are addicted to. Perhaps wifie is standing just outside the camera lines! For all that, though, he makes his love-making more convincing, if bashful, than the run of matinee idols.

I don't know if anyone cares a whoop "Who is Number One?" It's either a man or a woman: further than that their identity is unknown.

SOLDIER FACES SERIOUS CHARGE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 18.—Helmuth Seydlitz, 19 years old, a private of the Sixth Company of Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Rosecrans, is tonight locked up in the City Jail, charged with rifling the home of Mrs. J. T. Stevens of No. 1442 Nineteenth street. According to his story, he was driven to pilfering in order to get funds with which to rejoin his command, as while on leave in Los Angeles he had been stripped of his every cent by harpies with whom he had fallen in.

He will be returned to Fort Rosecrans tomorrow. According to the police, he is not technically a deserter, as he has not yet overstayed his leave ten days. The young soldier declares that he will be only too glad to get back to the fort and expressed his willingness to take his medicine before a court-martial.

Camp Kearny.

Savings Bank; Corp. S. Phillips of the First National Bank; McClary Gardiner, well-known in football circles, and Bud Rose, once widely-known as a Boy Scout, and now a color sergeant. Bud has trained down until he doesn't look much larger than Jim Jeffries. He shows up fine cruising around the field with the colors flying from his mainmast.

No pictures of any kind were taken of Saturday's review. The only explanation was that the action was taken as a military measure, and everybody accepted that as explanation enough. The correspondent of fiction who would ride up to the commanding general's tent and tell him how to run the war has gone out of style. This order foiled hundreds of people who had established a concealed battery of cameras near the field for the purpose of ambushing the troops. Also, the movie company which had planned to make a seven-reel picture of the dust kicked up by the soldiers, was foiled. This was easy, and merely consisted of sprinkling the field so there wouldn't be any dust. However, the dust came to life today and made up for lost time. The supply of it seemed to be inexhaustible. It swept the field in vast [illegible] and concealed the camp with [illegible] Linda Vista camouflage. [illegible] war hawks been nosing around looking for the camp they would have got nothing but an eyeful of dust. It was a bad day for taking photos from a flying machine and other high art. This dust, however, is useful in its way. Any soldier who has inhaled a Camp Kearny dust storm through [illegible] will never have any fear of German gas.

Attended divine worship today and refreshed myself spiritually. That's about the only thing refreshing that you can get on Sunday any more. Was both surprised and pleased to see a number of ladies knitting in church, and regretted that I had not brought my typewriter along. Still, they were engaged in a good work, and doubtless each of them breathed a prayer into the [illegible] which she was knitting. Some say that it is sinful to knit on the Sabbath. If knitting in church will send a lady down the broad road to destruction there isn't much hope for a sock-cursed world.
